Fire Destroys Entire Plant of Gage Run on Ponzi's Branch Office Co. at Forge Village and Seriously Endangers City's Ice Supply

LOSS WILL BE NEAR $125,000

Blaze of Unknown Origin Destroys Thousands of Tons of Pond Ice

Seven Houses and Stable Consumed in Less Than Three Hours

Enormous loss to property and thousands of tons of ice stored for consumption in Lowell occurred today, when fire of unknown origin raged for nearly three hours in the houses of the Gage Ice Co. on the shores of Forge pond, Forge Village, totally destroying five houses, two stacks and a stable.

With the ruins still smoldering at the present writing and with large piles of ice standing without the prospect of a retaining wall and in imminent danger of toppling to the ground, it is impossible to fairly estimate the loss in dollars and cents, but even a cursory glance at the ruins bears out the assumption that it will approximate $125,000. Miss Gage's statement this morning was that the loss will be very heavy and constitutes a serious blow to the business of the company.

On the personal side of the question looms high the realization that the fire has made serious inroads upon the city's supply of ice for the rest of the summer and undoubtedly Miss Gage will be forced into the open market to purchase from outside to meet local needs.

The five main houses, two stacks and the stable were converted into formless ruins by the flames between the time the fire was discovered at 5:30 o'clock and three hours later. It is estimated that about two-thirds of the maximum amount of ice was stored in the houses, representing approximately 35,000 tons. While some of it undoubtedly can be salvaged, it is a question as to its condition for household use. Thousands of cakes were mushroomed by the heat and flames and so dangerous are the melting piles now that it will be some time before a survey can be made or arrangements completed by which the ice may be moved without endangering the lives of employees.

Two stacks, the stable and one of the main buildings from which all ice had been taken were burned to ground level. The other four main houses were destroyed almost to their foundations, with a charred portion standing here and there to show where the walls originally stood. In this quarter of houses the columns of ice stood 30 feet high and for the present are being held in place only by solidity of packing. They are liable to fall at any moment and persons have been warned against approaching the ruins.

How the fire started is a mystery. It was discovered shortly after 5:30 o'clock and the Abbot Worsted Co. bell and whistle sounded the alarm. The Forge Village, Westford and Graniteville departments responded but before a hose line could be laid from the hydrants 100 yards distant both stacks were doomed and the fire had jumped to the main houses and had razed the stable. Valuable tools went with flames in the stable and only heroic work by the Spinner boys, Robert and

OUTING AT RYE HARBOR

Mayor and Commissioners Take Day Off With Newspapermen as Guests

Mayor Perry D. Thompson and the city commissioners are having an outing at Rye Harbor, N. H., today, and have as their guests the local newspapermen whose boat is city hall and its many departments. The trip to the beach was made in automobiles. A lobster dinner was scheduled for 12:30 o'clock and bathing was offered for those who cared to risk the icy waters of the North shore. Each of the newspapermen in the party was presented a silver pencil, suitably engraved as to initials, etc., gifts of the administration in appreciation of the honest and faithful efforts of the news gatherers.

Dick saved the life of Ned, the only horse housed there. Old Ned is a lucky horse today, for the flames were licking around his stall when help arrived.

Tons of hay, spread over the ice in each house, rapidly carried the flames along. Help was asked from Lowell when it was seen that the entire plant was doomed, but, as one of the village firemen said today, "The whole Boston department couldn't have saved the houses once the fire got under way."

Fortunately what little wind there was, blew toward the pond and this undoubtedly saved a number of cottages on the other side of the railroad track.

When the fire was discovered it was seen in the shack nearest the pond and as this building was empty, persons are unwilling to accept the theory that spontaneous combustion was the cause. Nobody says it was of incendiary origin, but the town is more or less at sea as to the reason for it.

William Leaser, the watchman, has been in Miss Gage's employ for many years. When seen today he said that late last night everything around the houses seemed to be in first class shape with no signs of fire anywhere. He places the amount of ice in the houses at about 35,000 tons and does not feel that very much of it now standing will be fit for household consumption.

The fire made its quota of town heroes and today the names of Bob Hunt, Dick Prescott, Chief Ed. Abbot, Bob and Dick Spinner, John Sullivan and Jack Monahan are on many lips. Hunt and Prescott, holding a line at one corner of one of the stacks, were forced to run for their lives when the building swayed and collapsed and although they moved just in the nick of time, each has an arm swathed in bandages where flying embers have left ugly scars.

Miss Gage said today that ice has been loaded at the houses for the past two months and, although ice still remains in the Pawtucket street house and at Baptist pond, So. Chelmsford, the loss this morning will be hard to equal and meet without outside aid. The five main houses destroyed have been built about 25 years, with the stacks, or additions, only recently. A similar fire occurred on the same site about 35 years ago, but previous to the time the property passed into the hands of the Gage company.

Insurance on the buildings was held by Fred C. Church.

LOCAL MILL SITUATION

No Plans for a General Shutdown Are Under Consideration Here

Although the local mills have taken no concerted action whereby their operatives will enjoy a general vacation at any given period this summer, as has been done in a number of the Lawrence mills, nevertheless, individual vacations will be granted very willingly to all employees wishing them, a number of local agents said today.

In the local hosiery plants operatives are already working on short time and in the cotton and woolen mills there are no indications of overtime activity. In fact, the mill agents would be very little embarrassed should a fair proportion of their employees take vacations at varying periods. But as far as a general shutdown for a week or more is concerned, no mill has yet announced such a step. One agent admitted that it had been considered at his mill but that no decision has yet been reached. Should any of the mills find business sufficiently dull to warrant a shutdown, it would probably come from Aug. 23 to Sept. 7. There will, of course, be a shutdown from Sept. 1 to Sept. 7, the Labor day week-end.

PRESIDENT OF PANAMA

Dr. Porras, Candidate of Liberal Conservative Party Elected

PANAMA, Aug. 2.—Dr. Belisario Porras, candidate of the liberal conservative party, was elected president of the republic of Panama in the election held yesterday. His opponent in the campaign was Dr. Ciro Uribe.

Dr. Porras was formerly president of Panama, and resigned six months ago in order to enter the campaign for re-election. The constitution of the republic providing that no one elected to that office should succeed himself. Late in July, partisans of Dr. Uribe died a protest with the state department at Washington, asserting that Dr. Porras was ineligible to the office. So far as is known, the United States did not intervene in the situation.

DENIES REPORT OF INSOLVENCY

Crowd as Large as That of Early Days of Last Week Cash in Notes

Ponzi Denies Report That He is Returning Money at Expense of Others

BOSTON, August 2.—The Securities Exchange Co., headed by Charles Ponzi, whose alleged operations in foreign exchange are being investigated by United States Attorney Daniel J. Gallagher and Attorney General Allen of Massachusetts, continued today the payment of notes to those investors who presented their claims. The line of claimants awaiting attention was a long one extending from Pi alley, through City Hall avenue to Court square, and fully equalling that of the early days of last week, when at the request of investigating officials, Ponzi stopped taking in money. Ponzi's prompt return of funds to those who asked for them had the effect toward the end of last week of greatly diminishing the number of claimants, but today, there was evidence of a sudden renewal of the desire to cash the notes he had issued.

While his clerks were meeting these demands, returning the principal to those whose 90-day notes had not matured, and keeping it, it was said, the promise to pay 50 per cent. interest on matured notes, Ponzi himself issued a statement in denial of a published article by William H. McMillen, his former publicity agent, in which McMillen expressed the belief that Ponzi was hopelessly insolvent and was paying.

SAYS IRISH TO SUPPORT G. O. P.

Cong. Mason Declares Friends of Ireland in U. S. Will Vote for Harding

Predicts G. O. P. Victory by Majority "the Most Overwhelming Since Grant's"

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 2.—A predictor that Irish sympathizers will support Harding and Coolidge, was made by Representative William E. Mason of Illinois; one of the leaders of the fight in congress for Irish recognition, in a statement made public from Harding headquarters today, after he had conferred with the nominee.

"Friends of Ireland of course have to be for Harding," the statement said, "because they know what Article 10 of the league covenant means—it would bind Ireland to England forever and blind us to help keep it there, and Governor Cox has pledged himself to support the Wilson program."

Representative Mason predicted that the Republicans would carry Illinois by at least 200,000 and that the republican national ticket would be elected by a majority "the most overwhelming since Grant's."

Senator Harding began work today on his second front porch speech, which he will deliver Wednesday in a delegation of republicans of Wayne county, Ohio.

SHOOTS HIMSELF

Suicide Makes Five Little Children Orphans

HARDWICK, Vt., August 2.—Harold Higgins, driver on a milk route here, committed suicide sometime Saturday, shooting himself in the head with a rifle. The back of his head was practically blown off. Despondency caused by the death of his wife three months ago, and by worry over the future of his five small children, the oldest of whom is eight years and the youngest three months, is thought to be responsible for his act.

The children have been with relatives, but the father was expecting to have to find new homes for some of them this fall. Although Higgins is thought to have killed himself early in the morning, his body was not found until late Saturday, when a little girl, peeping in the window, saw the dead man.

Higgins had tied a string through the trigger of the rifle and fastened it around his foot. He evidently shot himself while standing with his head bent over the barrel of the rifle. The bullet passed through his head, hit the ceiling, knocking down plastering, then descended and was found upon the dead man's chest.

BOSTON, August 2.—Stock dividends paid by unincorporated associations such as partnerships, trusts and similar organizations, are exempt from taxation under the state law, according to a ruling today by Attorney General Allen. ## INCREASES IN EFFECT SEPT. 1

Intrastate Increases Asked to Correspond With Interstate Rates Just Granted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. (By Associated Press.)—Readjustment of the whole rate structure of the nation's transportation systems was begun today with a view to putting into effect by Sept. 1, the freight, passenger, mail, excess baggage and milk rate increases authorized Saturday by the interstate commerce commission.

Requests for Advances Expected to be the Same for all States—Stocks Active

While tariff experts were working on the general rate schedules, the carriers will make application to the various state commissions for advances in intrastate rates to correspond to those in interstate rates. Requests for advances in passenger, Pullman, mail and excess baggage tariffs are expected to be the same for all states, the increases in these charges authorized by the federal commission being general for the entire country. They were 20 per cent. on passenger fares and excess baggage charges, and 10 per cent. on rates sleeping parlor space.

In the case of freight rates, the carriers will ask the states to advance these tariffs to correspond with increases granted by the federal commission for the territory in which state is located. The interstate increases authorized are 40 per cent. eastern territory; 25 in southern mountain Pacific territory and 20 in western territory.

STABS WIFE AND SELF AT LAWRENCE

LAWRENCE, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Olivia Sauveur, 43, of 80 Phillips street, was probably fatally stabbed about 10 o'clock yesterday morning. According to the police, her husband, Joseph St. Sauveur, 42, who it is alleged did the stabbing, afterward tried to commit suicide. He gashed his throat, but did not seriously injure himself. St. Sauveur was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to kill. Jealousy is said to have been the motive for the deed.

The St. Sauveurs live in a three-roomed house, and neighbors say they have frequently quarreled. Their latest dispute was Saturday night, but according to their 20-year-old daughter and her husband, who live with them, they had apparently patched up their troubles before retiring.

Yesterday morning, according to Mrs. St. Sauveur, she was awakened by her husband who stood at her bedside with a penknife in his hand. Remarkably, "We must die together," he began to stah her in the breast, she says. She best him off and cried for help. Her daughter and son-in-law were awakened.

When he heard help coming, St. Sauveur, it is said, gashed his throat and ran from the house. The police officers saw him a few moments later, and noting his condition, arrested him. He was taken to the general hospital and then locked up.

Mrs. St. Sauveur collapsed soon after assistance came and was rushed to the hospital, where her name was placed on the danger list. She has 22 knife wounds in her body, one very near the heart. Her lung is punctured in two places.

The family came here four years ago from Easthampton, previous to which time they had lived apart for awhile. Mrs. St. Sauveur is a weaver in the Katama mills and her husband is night watchman in the same place.

WOMAN ADMITS KILLING HUSBAND

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Alexandra Sokolowsky, widow of Frank Sokolowsky, was arrested here last night, charged with the murder of her husband at their home at New Haven, Conn., on the morning of June 26.

The woman was taken to police headquarters, where, detectives said, she broke down and confessed she threw carbolic acid on her husband as he slept.

Mrs. Sokolowsky explained her act, detectives declared, by saying that her husband, who was a prominent labor leader, was a handsome man and she wanted to sell his good looks after she found a letter written to him by another woman. Some of the acid is supposed to have been swallowed by Sokolowsky, causing his death.

Since her husband's death, Mrs. Sokolowsky said she has visited cities in New England and Canada and twice returned to New Haven. She told the police she came to New York a few days ago.

TRIES TO KILL WIFE THEN ENDS HIS LIFE

LEOMINSTER, August 2.—John Robinson, 71 years of age, committed suicide yesterday, after an attempt to murder his wife, who was in bed, by slashing her with a knife and then setting the bed clothes afire.

Their son, Thomas, hearing his mother's cries, went to her assistance. He pulled the flaming covers from the bed and carried them outdoors. When he returned he found that his father had shot himself.

Mrs. Robinson is expected to recover. The medical examiner said that Robinson was temporarily deranged.

WOMAN ATTEMPTS TO KILL HERSELF

BOSTON, August 2.—Mrs. Laura M. Bennett, 24 years old, of 31 Munroe street, is at the Lynn hospital, her name on the dangerous list, with an even chance of recovery, as a result of taking bichloride of mercury.

The woman was found lying in a door way at the corner of Washington and Munroe streets about 1 o'clock yesterday morning, by Patrolman Frank Teale.

She had written a note to Homer Richard of South Common street, Lynn, telling him to take care of her daughter, saying "she could not stand it any longer." She said she loved him, but knew he liked somebody else better. Richard went to the Lynn police yesterday morning, and said he had known the woman, but had not seen her for three months.

Mrs. Bennett, according to the police, is divorced, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goodwin of 210 Centre street, Brockton. Her child is five years old. The daughter, she said, was her child by an unhappy marriage. Mrs. Bennett was a lodger at Munroe street.

FEW DISORDERS IN MEXICAN ELECTION

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 1.—Only a few minor disorders marked the congressional elections throughout Mexico today. Detailed reports of the result are not yet available but there are indications that the liberal constitutionalists or government party was victorious.

An urgent request for the postponement of the presidential election for at least three months has been wired to Provisional President de la Huerta, by Esteban Cantu, governor of Lower California, according to advices received by the newspaper. Exelsior. The dispatch states that Gov. Cantu said that elections held prematurely would be regarded by the people as a means for imposing a single presidential candidate upon the country. He is said to declare that the tragic death of President Carranza was an additional reason for postponing the selection of a new chief executive.

POLES ARRIVE FOR ARMISTICE SESSION

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Polish plenipotentiaries appointed to negotiate an armistice agreement with representatives of the Russian bolshevik government, have arrived at Baranovitch, where the armistice conference will be held, according to advices received here from Warsaw.

DOUBT AGREEMENT FOR ARMISTICE

WARSAW, Aug. 1.—(By Associated Press) Doubt was expressed today in diplomatic circles here as to whether an agreement for an armistice would come out of the negotiations between the Polish and soviet emissaries at Baranovitch. It was thought that the soviet authorities were likely to insist upon terms too severe for the Poles to accept.

The Polish delegates carried with them into the Russian lines a portable wireless outfit which they intended to use for communication with Warsaw. Officials said this afternoon, however, that it might be days before the negotiations were heard from.

DEBS HALTS MOVE FOR HIS RELEASE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Eugene V. Debs, socialist candidate for president, has put his foot down on the movement started by his friends to obtain his release from the federal prison.

Writing from the Atlanta penitentiary, Debs declared that so long as his comrades "are held criminals and convicts" his place was there. The letter, sent to Mrs. Lucy Robins, secretary of the Central Labor Bodies' Conference of New York, and made public here today, said:

"Please say to the comrades in New York that while I appreciate fully all that has been done in my behalf, I object emphatically to any further appeal being made for me only to President Wilson. I wish no special consideration, and I wish to fare no better than my comrades."

As far as the company is concerned, the matter is ended, it was stated today. The patternmakers presented a collective request for an increase in wages to $1 an hour on July 17. The company agreed to consider the individual requests of the men, but would not agree to deal with them collectively. The patternmakers looked upon this attitude as a refusal of the officials to recognize their union, the Lowell Branch of the Boston Association of Patternmakers of North America, and on Saturday went out on strike.

NEW MOVE TO BAR ARCH-BISHOP MANNIX

QUEENSTOWN, Ire., Aug. 2.—The White Star liner Celtic, due here Sunday night with 800 passengers for this city, has been ordered to proceed direct to Liverpool. It is surmised the Ballie, upon which Archbishop Mannix of Australia sailed from New York yesterday, will be directed to take a similar course.

The Press association says neither White Star nor Cunard liners will call at Queenstown to land passengers until further notice.

Mannix Still a Problem

DUBLIN, Aug. 2.—Should Archbishop Mannix of Australia be forced to proceed direct to Liverpool the question arises here as to how the government can prevent his coming to Ireland.

Until a few months ago a permit was required to land in Ireland, but this regulation was abolished. It is suggested that it might be revived, as has been the rule regarding government search of passengers' baggage.

Large numbers of Irish bishops and priests from Australasia are at present visiting Ireland and information has been given that they will form a body-guard for Archbishop Mannix if he is permitted to land.

The archbishop of Sydney, Australia, who has been visiting Ireland, yesterday preached a sermon sympathizing with the Sinn Fein.

The Cunard line steamer Caronia, carrying some Irish passengers, arrived at Liverpool yesterday on the voyage from New York. Instead of going first to Queenstown, as has been the custom.

Ordering of the Celtic and Caronia to proceed direct to Liverpool, it is pointed out, will inflict heavy financial loss on the port, where the hotels laid in large supplies for thousands of passengers expected to land from the steamers.

Agents of the companies say their instructions so far only relate to the Celtic and the Caronia.

Increases in Effect Sept. 1

Value permitted by the transportation act.

Since the commission fixed the aggregate value of all the lines at $18,500,000,000, the net operating income would be approximately $1,154,000,000, as compared with the $550,000,000 standard return the roads have received during the period of federal control and since.

Coastwise and inland steamship companies and electric railway lines are permitted, under the interstate commerce commission's decision, to raise only freight rates. Nothing was said by the commission as to passenger rates on the steamship lines, but the decision did say specifically that the freight rate increase granted electric railway lines was "not to be construed as an expression of disapproval of increases made or proposed in the regular manner in the passenger fares of electric lines."

While the commission authorized separate freight rate increases to the railroads in the four separate territories, the increase on freight moving from one territory into another will be 33-1/3 per cent.

Deny Request for Separate Increase

Creation by the commission on its own motion of the Mountain-Pacific territory was unexpected. The western roads as a whole had joined in asking for an increase of 33.3 per cent., but the southwestern lines later at the public hearing asked that they be given separate treatment and a freight increase of approximately 35 per cent. The commission did not grant this request, saying that it had been opposed by many shippers and by other carriers in the western group.

"The record shows," said the commission, "that the principal railroads serving the territory west of the Colorado common points, especially the so-called transcontinental railroads, as a whole, are in a substantially better financial condition than other carriers in the western territory. It also shows that the rates, generally speaking, are materially higher in the region west of the Colorado common points than in the part of the western territory lying east thereof. Considering the whole situation it is our view that the territory west of the Colorado common points and the traffic to and from that territory may properly be given separate treatment."

Needs of N. E. Roads

The commission also said that the carriers in New England had brought to its attention "the peculiar financial needs" of the railroads in that territory and in its general conclusions regarding the freight increases it said: "While the New England carriers are included in the eastern group and are subject to the percentage for that group, the evidence as to the disproportionate needs of the New England lines makes it desirable that the carriers give careful consideration to the division of joint rates accruing to those lines."

The surcharge of 50 per cent. on sleeping and parlor car space is to accrue wholly to the railroads. This charge was opposed by the Pullman Co. on the ground that it would reduce the travel in cars of that type, but the commission held that a charge of this character "has much in its favor" as "unquestionably the service is more valuable to the passenger and more expensive to the rail carriers."

Reasons Very Persuasive

WASHINGTON, August 2.—"Reasons requiring an increase of interstate rates are very persuasive of the need for increase in intrastate rates," declares a report sent to various state railway commissions today, by the three representatives of those commissions who sat with the Interstate Commerce commission during public hearings on the billion and a half dollar railroad rate case.

"When all matters are considered," says the report, "and remembering that where 13 men are considering controverted questions and proposed policies, their differences of opinion must be composed or decided by the majority, we believe that the conclusion, considering all things, is just and fair and we give it our approval."

"The increased rates permitted under the ruling in ex-parte 14 will probably go into effect September 1, 1920. The operating revenues of the railroads under present rates and conditions are recognized by all persons as insufficient. A part of the responsibility to meet the situation rests upon the state commissions. Such increases as will be made in intrastate rates should, if possible, be made effective September 1, 1920."

The report is signed by William D. Rainey, chairman of the public service commission of Pennsylvania; Roy C. Dunn of the Florida railroad commission, and John A. Guher, of the Iowa railroad commission.

"We participated in the conference in the same manner as members of the commission," the state commission's report declares, "being invited by them to take part in the discussions and express our views with full freedom. The members of the commission gave to the case intense and efficient application, examining and discussing it with the evident desire to reach correct conclusions and apply the increase in such manner to deal justly with the whole country."

Stock Market Active

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Speculative and investment sentiment was hopelessly disposed at the outset of business today as a result of the sweeping advances in railroad, passenger and freight rates granted by the Interstate commerce commission.

The news brought in a large volume of buying orders from all over the country which imparted considerable activity to the initial dealings, with substantial improvements in all quarters of the list. Railroad shares of all descriptions were absorbed on a steadily rising scale with the advances ranging from 1 to 3 1/4 points. Representative dividend paying stocks, such as New York Central, Northern Pacific, Reading, Great Northern preferred, South Pacific and Union Pacific, made the most headway, but there were numerous gains approximating two points in the more speculative shares such as New Haven, Pittsburg and western, Rock Island and St. Louis Southwestern preferred.

POPULATION OF

GEORGIA 2,893,601

WASHINGTON, August 2.—The census bureau today made the following announcement of population figures: State of Georgia 2,893,601, increase 234,480, or 10.8 per cent. (Incomplete because of omission of one enumeration district.)

CAPITAL AND LABOR

This is a time when all classes in this country should exercise due caution in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the nation and its people. In other words it is a time when wise leadership is necessary and when the people employed in our industries should think for themselves rather than accept the statements of irresponsible agitators or leaders who are disposed to jump at conclusions.

Our attention has been called to an article recently published and credited to a labor leader in which he made the statement that for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, the value of our exports exceeded that of our imports by a total of $13,351,000,000. Now the actual amount according to United States statistics was $4,129,000,000, which shows that by some strange error this official based his arguments upon false premises. But his remarks are worth examining on account of their further misleading extravagance. Continuing, he said:

"This means that the workers of the United States supported, themselves, supported the unemployed within their ranks, supported the entire military forces within the confines of the country, supported the vast body of useless political functionaries and investigation committees, supported the capitalist class and all their lackeys, and on top of all this produced enough food, clothing, shelter, fuel and other commodities to export nearly thirteen and one-half billions' worth more in a single year than was imported."

"Increase production? Produce more commodities? What for? Aren't the workers now producing billions of dollars' worth more than their wages will buy back—more than they are permitted to consume? Is increased production the solution for the problems confronting the workers? The figures you have just read say 'No'. The problem for the workers is not increased production, but increased consumption. Not how to produce more, but how to consume more."

It would be difficult to produce a more vicious or more misleading piece of advice than that here quoted, and we feel that every honest workman should at least be shown wherein such statements are wrong and that if followed they will have an effect that will injure all concerned, but particularly the working people.

It is such utterances as those quoted, that incite the toilers unjustly against the capitalists upon whom they must depend for employment. Some extremists have gone so far as to claim that the total product of labor by manipulating labor saving machinery belongs to labor and that what the capitalists claim is taken dishonestly.

As a result we find socialists going up and down the land advocating an equal distribution of property on the ground that what capitalists have accumulated has been secured unjustly by extortion from the laboring people. As usual the capitalist gets no credit or allowance for the plant, the machinery and the enterprise in establishing the industry and conducting it to a success.

It would be well if we could give a mathematical statement of the proportion which capital and labor contribute respectively to the finished factory product in any particular case. All we can judge from is the relative work performed by each with a fair compensation for both. On this question we can only reach an approximate solution.

Bulletin 102, part 5, issued by the Smithsonian Institution estimates that the amount of power actually in operation in the United States is about 150,000,000 horsepower and second, that this power is equal to the labor of 3,000,000,000 hard working men.

It is also estimated that the number of people employed in gainful occupations in the United States is 40,000,000. This is also a government estimate. It would seem to follow, therefore, that capitalism is contributing 77 times as much energy to the work of production and distribution as is labor. Nevertheless, it cannot be shown that capital receives more than 20 per cent of the benefits accruing. Thus while capital provides three-fourths of the energy of production, it does not receive more than one-fifth of the proceeds. Capital supplies the power and facilities for which labor would willingly give half or two-thirds of its products, provided they were obtainable at lower prices. Capital also provides the plans, the organization and the management that make the power and machinery more effective, and for this service charges only 10 to 20 per cent of the product.

The value and necessity of capitalism to any country can be judged only from the backward conditions prevailing in countries in which there is no capital to start industries, to organize great enterprises and employ labor saving machinery. China, Russia and other countries, none of which has any semblance of industrial prosperity, are examples of what we too would have if capital were banished. In Russia capitalism even in its primitive form has been wiped out and now the country has no organization except the government to start up industries and provide work for the people. That system is bound to fail if results be taken as the test.

Capital and labor are necessary to each other and neither can attain prosperity without the other. For this reason, it is best for both that they co-operate as far as possible and make a fair division of the profits, paying the laborer for his toil and the capitalist for his services in running the business and for the use of his capital which if placed in a bank instead of a mill, a railroad or a factory would earn a fair amount of interest without calling for any effort on the part of the owner.

It is true that combinations of capital are dangerous and that they must be restrained by law in order to protect the people against greed, monopoly and profiteering. But at the same time, it is all important that capital as well as labor be duly protected in the exercise of all its legitimate functions.

It would be well if certain labor leaders who are continually assailing capital would learn to what an extent all of us are dependent upon the functions of capital for the rare opportunities of advancement which we now enjoy in this republic.

UNITED PARTY FOR COX

Judging from the present outlook the democratic party is closing its ranks for a first class fight. Senator Walsh and others who might have been regarded as lukewarm are out with declarations in support of the ticket. Mr. McAdoo, who lost the nomination by a narrow margin, has declared that he will go on the stump for the democratic ticket.

Governor Cox is making a good impression everywhere and the political darts directed at his head by republican rivals, do not seem to have much effect. He has been accused of falling into the Wilsonian policy on the League of Nations, but his new political manager announces that he will deal with that question by an original method of his own. He has not accepted the Wilson dictum on the League of Nations or any other question. He stands squarely on the democratic platform which in every feature is more practical, direct, positive and statesmanlike than the republican.

In order to avoid a party split the republicans evaded some of the main issues in their platform. That is particularly true of their stand on the League of Nations, the plank on which may mean anything or nothing. It recalled the story of an officer on the field of battle who took command as captain of a detachment under rather trying circumstances after a superior officer had fallen. He wanted to find the attitude of his men toward further resistance.

"My men, will we fight or will we run?" he shouted.

"We will!" answered the men with loud acclaim.

"Will we, or will we not?" he persisted.

"We will not," responded the men.

"All right, my men. I knew you wouldn't," said the captain.

What the captain and his men actually meant to do in that case is left quite as clear as what the republican party means to do with the League of Nations.

The lines of the democratic campaign will not be finally declared until Governor Cox makes his speech of acceptance. He can be relied upon, we believe, to adopt a plan of campaign that will be generally acceptable and to take a stand in favor of democratic principles that will bring to his support many of the elements which had been wavering in their allegiance to the democratic party.

Samuel Gompers has come out in support of Governor Cox and the democratic ticket as that which offers the best assurance of fair treatment for labor as well as for every other class of citizens in the nation.

Mr. Gompers sounds a note of warning against what he perceives to be a movement to coerce labor, through curtailment in the factories or actual shut-downs. He recognizes that as an old-time republican method; but he cautions republican leaders and capitalists against resorting to it at this time, when the cry is for production, greater production.

Everywhere there is condemnation of strikes and the agitation for shorter hours, but equally are the factories open to censure for curtailment or, worse still, suspension for political purposes.

It is a very grave charge to make against certain republican interests; but what they have done in the past they may do again; and Mr. Gompers may not be wholly astray when he charges wilful and unnecessary curtailment for political effect.

The warning has been given and from now until the end of the campaign, all cases of extended wage or work reduction will be subjected to the greatest scrutiny.

The woolen business has been more or less demoralized as already stated in this paper; but there are certain cases of curtailment and suspension which are not regarded as due entirely to business reasons.

There is no ground for the charge that the continuance of a democratic administration means industrial stagnation. If we are to judge of republican capacity to set things moving from the record of the republican congress, there would be no incentive to support the republican ticket. The party lives mainly on its past reputation but the past never returns and, while history does occasionally repeat itself, there is little probability that the future of the republican party will ever rise to the dignity of its past.

Premier Hughes, of Australia, says that "the hope of the peace of the world lies in the firm alliance and understanding that has existed between England and America for 100 years." For the sake of historical accuracy we should like to inquire where that "firm alliance and understanding" was when the Alabama was being fitted out in English shipyards to prey on American commerce and Ambassador Charles Francis Adams told Lord Palmerston, "This means war?" Where was it when the British government demanded and obtained the release of the rebel commissioners, Mason and Slidell, from their prison in Boston harbor? Where was it when Secretary of State Olney told John Bull that he must take his grip from the throat of Venezuela or fight?

It is something of an insult to the people of Lowell to think that any considerable number of them would wish to dance in a place where they would annoy the sick patients in a hospital.

Get-rich-quick schemes would be better worth considering if any money that might be picked up through them had the same value as dollars earned by honest toil.

Even interest in the Red Sox and Braves games lags in Boston with such an enthralling problem as "How did Ponzi do it?" to discuss.

Now that it has been announced that there are plenty of freight cars for Lowell, let's hope that the next good news will be "plenty of coal."

It is never too late to learn that it is best to be early.

The man foolish enough to pay 50 cents for a drink of "moonshine" ought not to kick about it.

The Side Wheeler

There was a time when such a thing as the "side wheel" was known, and it was not uncommon, either. The effect of intoxicants on some men is to make them walk sideways with one shoulder lowered. But the only side-wheeler seen nowadays is the pacing horse.

Gave Three Cheers

It is just 810 years ago today that King William II (Rufus) was killed while hunting in the New Forest in Hampshire and every one of the Saxon subjects of this Norman monarch gave three cheer cheers. The Normans made a hunting preserve wherever they fancied to and dealt much concentrated misery to the natives who poached therein. So, when Sir Walter Tyrrel's crossbow bolt went wild—and put a period after the king's name, all of the natives were much obliged.

The Family Reunion

The open season for family reunions is at hand. Aunt Lucy has baked several editions of her spice cake, Ma has ironed out sister's newest frock and tied on her big pink sash, not to speak of washing brother's neck and ears and making him put on the Sunday shoes that squeak so. Well-dressed baskets are being tucked, with the kids, into the back seat. Dad has filled up the gas tank, and given 'er a quart of oil, and the folks, bless 'em, are on the way. The joyful meeting at all kinds of hilarity, reminiscences and casual inspection of the relations. Uncle William, who is 50, insists on showing that he can dance as well as the youngest there, by cakewalk. Here is Cousin Mathilda, who has been twice to Yurru, wearing the same black alpaca that she wore when she visited Buckingham Palace. Out of the 75 to 200 people present, only two or three of the aged uncles and aunts who used to widen the children's eyes with Civil War tales, are left. There is a new crop of family heroes now, one of them, Cousin Al, with a Croix de Guerre, though he doesn't wear it. And so the family foregathers, in a thousand communities, large and small, and so again it scatters. And the aging members nod their heads and sagely say, with a great, inclusive satisfaction: "Blood is thicker than water, after all."

Foreign Exchange

"This," said the bootlegger, "is a quart of Hagg and Hagg, the real foreign stuff, smuggled into this country under a Derby hat. Twenty dollars takes it away and if you don't want it, I can get twenty-two some place else." "And it only costs three dollars over in England?" mused the tipsy buyer. "Yes, but this is a different country. Remember this has got the foreign stamp on it. Real foreign, that's what it is."

"Um—" mumbled the drunk, "now I know how they make so much money on this foreign exchange," and he slipped out of the alley.

MAE ABOUT TOWN

I had occasion a few days ago to purchase a game of "Authors." What surprised me most, perhaps, was that I was able to buy it. But it seems that down in Salem there is a concern that makes a business of supplying the material for about every kind of indoor pastime for which there is any demand. That it is still turning out the venerable old game shows that there must be a few old fashioned young or old people who still have a fondness for "calling" for the works of the different great writers, making them into "books." Memories of many a long, quiet, happy winter evening playing "Authors" will be recalled by people now nearing the "lean and slippered pantaloon" stage of Shakespeare's "Seven Ages," and perhaps more than a few of them would acknowledge that a reputation they acquired in later life for literary attainments rested upon no more secure a foundation than their acquaintance with the names and works of celebrities gained in playing "Authors." I found one very modern thing connected with the game, however, when I purchased it. The price has advanced something like 300 per cent over what it used to be in the good old days "before de war." There is another game that seems to have come down to us from a long, distant past and that still retains at least some shreds of its once great popularity. That is croquet. It was played everywhere in the days when young women wore hoop skirts. It persisted through the days of the "bustle" and the "halloo" sleeves, and is evidently still something of a favorite now that short skirts, sneakers, sun-burned arms and throats are the order of the day.

BIG REPUBLICAN RALLY

Whitney Playground in Westford Scene of Republican League Outing

Republicans from 14 Middlesex county towns and cities of this section gathered on the Whitney playground at Westford Saturday for the first big outing of the season under the auspices of the Republican League.

It was a typical G.O.P. gathering and bore out the contention of the party leaders, that a little fun must be mixed into the political salad if the men and women are to be brought around the rallying post in large numbers.

Thunder heads threatened for an hour or more but the Merrimack river to the north and west kept the impending shower unto her own valley and the "outfitters" came through dry shod. The setting for the affair, therefore, was just about as perfect as possible, with high party leaders in attendance, including Hon. John Jacob Rogers, Joe Mitchell Chapple and Captain Daniel A. McKay, the three speakers.

Aspirants for state offices were everywhere and opponents gripped hands in front of the pictures of Harding and Coolidge that covered the whole of one side of the schoolhouse on the eastern side of the playground. In every respect it was a gathering preparatory to the coming national campaign, with the fight for state offices trailing along just a stride behind.

There was band music by the Abbot Worsted Co. musicians, addresses by the three speakers mentioned, spirited community singing by Albert Edmund Brown, refreshments galore and an excellent baseball game between the Abbot Worsted team and the Fore River shipyard of Quincy. This was won by the "home" nine, by the way, 5 to 0.

Congressman Rogers confined himself to campaign issues, chiefly coal and sugar, and charged Attorney General Palmer with the responsibility of the present scarcity of the former and exorbitant prices being demanded for the latter necessary of life. "He has not even attempted to use the corrective laws at his command," Mr. Rogers said, "and while he has assured us that the cost of living is being reduced, we see no signs of it in our monthly bills or as we pay as we go."

Joe Mitchell Chapple brought a personal word from Senator Warren G. Harding, whose biography he has been asked to write. He has recently returned east from Marion, Ohio, and with characteristic ability painted a vivid word-picture of the republican nominee. Capt. McKay confined himself to the work of the party in Massachusetts as being carried on under the auspices of the league.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

THE TWINS MAKE A VISIT

When Tingaling, the fairy landlord, failed to appear, Nancy and Nick decided that he had gone home without them. Of course, they couldn't imagine why, unless it was because he was so comfortable in Oliver Oriole's nightgown that he had forgotten everything else. Tingaling was wearing Oliver's nightgown, you know, while his own clothes were getting let out.

But just then Munchie Mouse burst in, completely tucked out, running up the stairs so fast, "Hurry—hurry!" he gasped. "Mr. Tingaling has gone would have kept him about ten stories high. So Oliver Oriole and the twins climbed at once to the next floor in Maple Tree flats, where Oscar lived, and knocked gently. They thought it best to find out first if Tingaling was really there, before planning his rescue.

When the knock came Oscar Owl jumped in surprise. He wasn't expecting callers and he wondered who in the world it could be, so he peeped out cautiously.

"How do you do?" said Nick, boldly.

HE WASN'T EXPECTING CALLERS, SO HE PEEPED OUT CAUTIOUSLY

up on the dumb-waiter with Oscar Owl's garbage can, and I am afraid something will happen to him. If Mr. Owl is hungry, dear knows what he'll do."

"But what can we do?" asked Nancy anxiously.

"I'm sure I don't know," panted Munchie. "You'll just have to go up and see. I can't go with you, because I'm very busy downstairs today. But everybody knew that Oscar Owl had lived downstairs, Munchie's work

"We came to see if you knew anything about Mr. Tingaling, the fairy landlord. We thought he might be here."

Oscar opened the door wider when he heard that. "You may come in and look for him if you wish," he said graciously, "but I don't think you'll find him."

The twins weren't so sure about that. They had noticed a tassel (the one on Tingaling's nightgown) sticking out of the corner of Oscar's mouth.

HARDING HAS QUIET DAY

Rests After Opening Front
Porch Campaign—Sen.
McCormick on League

MARION, O., Aug. 2.—Tired from a week of hard work, which had kept him at his desk early and late, Senator Harding spent a Sunday of almost complete relaxation from the cares of the campaign. Most of the day he remained at home resting and only once or twice did he look in at his office in the administration building next door. He and Mrs. Harding had dinner with a party of neighbors and in the afternoon chatted with friends who dropped in for Sunday calls. They did not attend services during the morning as usual, their church being closed because of the illness of the pastor.

The senator's only conference during the day was with Representative William E. Mason of Illinois, who has been one of the leaders in congress for recognition of the Irish republic. Mr. Mason said he only had come to Marion to pay his respects to the nominee, but he indicated that he might have a statement to make later about their talk.

Today Senator Harding will go to work on the second of his front porch speeches, to be delivered Wednesday. Another will follow on Thursday, the delegations in both cases coming from the neighboring Ohio cities.

That the republican nominee will not permit the democrats to evade the League of Nations issue was reiterated from the Harding headquarters yesterday in a statement by Senator McCormick of Illinois, who came to Marion to confer with Senator Harding. The Illinois senator, who is attached to national headquarters declared "the solemn referendum which Dr. Wilson has sought," would be carried out.

The democratic attitude he characterized as "amusing" in view of recent utterances by republican statesmen.

"In an official statement published in London papers now received here," Senator McCormick's statement continued, "the British prime minister says that obviously the covenant must be revised in order to secure American adherence to any league, and that it will be revised for the better. Lord Grey proposes that a new president, in consultation with the senate, shall be invited to re-write the entire plan for a concert among the nations and warns against accepting again as representative of the American people the personal views of a party leader."

"It is the plain truth that in France and England responsible public men bitterly deplore the misrepresentation of America by Dr. Wilson."

OPENING SPEECH OF HARDING'S CAMPAIGN
MARION, Ohio, July 31.—In the

opening speech of his front porch campaign, Senator Harding told a delegation from Richland county, Ohio, today, that the greatest usefulness of the nation demands a leveling of class and sectional barriers and a realization of the "interdependence and mutual interest of all our people."

The great war, he said, had helped toward such a realization, though there were many ways by which, in peace time, the rule of "commingling friendship" and equal opportunity could be encouraged. Close co-operation in industry and complete assimilation of the foreign-born he suggested as pointing the way to a fuller national accord.

Would Readjust Taxes

Urging also a readjustment of taxation, he expressed doubt whether the war-time excess profits levy was in harmony with peace requirements, but added that he had not yet worked out the details of a revised tax system.

"We ought to make wealth bear its full share of taxation," he said, "and we ever will. Having this thought in mind and also thinking of the excessive cost of living, I doubt if the excess profits tax for war precisely accomplishes the end we seek in peace. I would gladly recommend a change, but I am not yet prepared to suggest an equitable substitute, though I should have no hesitancy in asking congress to seek the earliest possible solution."

Silent on League of Nations

The League of Nations he did not refer to directly, but he declared that the nation's "highest duty is to cling to the fundamentals on which we build to world astonishment and hold fast to the nationality which inspired our onward march."

"It is with a keen sense of delight that I welcome your visit today," said Senator Harding. "I am pleased that you come out not only as republicans, but as neighbors and friends. We need to cultivate friendliness and neighborliness. I sometimes think in this busy, work-a-day world, we are neglecting those little acts of neighborliness that make life sweet and worth while. It is well enough for one to strike to get ahead in a material sense, for through that ambition human progress is wrought. To acquire and accumulate honestly is most laudable, but we should not forget that life's greatest joys lie in the social concourse of friends and neighbors. Out of such relations grow mutual respect, mutual sympathy and mutual interest, without which life holds little of real enjoyment."

A Part of Country

"I feel myself almost a part of Richland county. Our people, early in the last century, settled in a section that was bounded by Richland and Crawford counties, and my earliest recollections are of grists taken to Lexington for grinding. I recall distinctly the stories of my great-grandmother, who related to me how she had often gone with one bag of wheat on horseback, while the men were busy in the fields, and the cries of the wolves were a frequent accompaniment to the wearied homeward journey. That was in the days when heroes were without fame's accolade, when a sturdy manhood and womanhood were battling with the wilderness to reveal Ohio to the star of empire, westward marching."

Some times I am accused of living in the past, but, frankly, I find the story of their making of Ohio very fascinating, and drink new aspiration in recalling the paths they trod and the works they wrought. The miracle in developing America has its lessons, and emphasizes our resolution to hold fast to all the advancement they made, and go on securely toward all we hope to be.

Home of Many Notables

"Having prospered materially, your county has been likewise fortunate in the quality of its people, from among whom have come many notable men to write their names upon the imperishable tablets of the nation's history."

"I could multiply examples of your fellow citizens worthy of mention did time permit. But I should fail utterly in my duty to his memory and to his great achievements did I not mention that great statesman, John Sherman, one of the fathers of the republican party. For 43 years he helped to write the glorious record of the republic in statute law and service in the cabinet. No man in our public life has rendered more distinguished or valuable service than Senator Sherman."

"The especial thought in my mind today is the interdependence and the mutual interest of all our people. One could underwrite the good fortune of mankind if he could guarantee in prosperity that fraternity—that common interest—which is born of adversity. The Pilgrim fathers

Menace to Progress

"The tendency of class consciousness is a product of developing fortunes and is both a reflect of achievement and a menace to maintained progress. We must capitol against class distinction and class conflict at every step."

"Here is the 'middle west,' where farming is free from tenantry and holds to the normal way, and manufacturing is mainly confined to the plants of that moderate size which indexes the surpassing fabric of American industry, we have the touch of intimacy and that closer understanding which emphasize the thought I have in mind. We cannot promote agriculture alone, because the factory is necessary to the making of a market. We cannot foster the factory and ignore agriculture, because the farm is our base of food supply."

Discusses 40-Cent Wheat

"I can readily recall 40-cent wheat, flayed from the fields of Richland and Morrow. That was before industry developed the home consumer. That was before railroads and improved highways opened the way to markets. That was when farming was a fight for subsistence, instead of the present day pursuit of attainment. That was before luxury became the by-product of farm and factory. That was before the age of agricultural machinery, that was when we cradled the wheat and tolled from sunrise to sunset. That was before wealth had been taken from the earth to alter the way of our civilization."

"I trust no one will misquote me as saying I believe in 40-cent wheat because I have indulged my memory. Sometimes we are very unfair in handling the utterances of public men. I remember, when the senate was discussing the war-time guarantee on wheat, when we felt we ought to give the American farmer that assurance which would encourage seedling to guard against war famine, a western senator was arguing that wheat could not be raised for less than $2.50 per bushel. I interrupted him to say that I well recalled that Ohio farmers, in pre-war days, had rejoiced to get a dollar for their wheat. I was speaking of normal days prior to the war. You will bear me witness that I spoke fairly and correctly. Yet there are those today who seek to convey that I said a dollar a bushel is enough for wheat today. I am not so annoyed at the silly untruth as I am distressed at the affront to ordinary intelligence."

"Pardon the diversion. I am recalling the old-time low level of prices to recall at the same time the people's inability to buy, and to remind you that mounting farm prices, mounting wages, mounting expenditures—all are inseparably linked, and a grim mutuality will ultimately assert itself and no matter what we do. But a mindfulness of this mutuality will spare us the fine qualities and the grievances which come of forced adjustment."

"There is no living today or tomorrow according to the standard of yesterday. Every normal being is looking forward. We collect more federal taxes in one year than the entire wealth of the republic a century ago. Only a little while ago our grievances about taxes were wholly local, because a half-century of republican control of the federal government held us free from direct burdens. But the changed policy, the democratic drift to freedom of trade, which is international rather than national and mounting cost of government and finally war burdens terner federal taxation to a colossal burden.

"Despite all the depreciation, I cannot bring myself to accept the notion that the inter-relation among our men and women has departed. We are a democratic people. Our state was founded by people who brought with them the ancient social customs of neighborhood confraternity—the tie that knits communities together, whose widening circle makes of the mass of homogeneous people."

"It is good that our producing interests are diversified. In that lies our great strength as a nation. The manufacturing centers and the food producing areas complement and supplement each other. These two grand divisions are bound together by common ties of nationality of history and of aspiration. There is not and there must not be conflict between them. Our imperial domain provides us with the material means of our greatness. There is a disposition of some to inveigh against one section or another, as selfish interest may suggest, but the broad national welfare contemplates no east and no west, no north and no south. Pride of locality is most commendable, but patriotism is not sectional. Politically we may divide as God gives us to see the right, but materially, socially and economically, we must be an entity—united, harmonious and inter-dependent."

"I rejoice to recall that when the great world war summoned our sons to duty and to death, perhaps, there was no question about geography. The boys of the north 'dressed front' with the sons of the south, and all went triumphantly forward to undying fame, never questioning the origin or the environment, much less the locality of their comrades. Upon the mossy rocks of the plains and of the metropolis, with that of the boys of Great Lakes and sons from the land of the palmetto and the fragrant magnolia."

"By cultivating the spirit of friendliness, by a recognition of interdependence, the problems of life are made much easier for all. There is a growing tendency to look to government for all remedies, forgetting there are natural laws that will operate to correct evils if given a fair chance. Oftentimes well-meaning laws defeat the very object they are designed to accomplish."

"If the great world war held for us nothing else, it did teach us that there is something more than gain to be striven for in this world. We can halt the lofty and blessed rule of commingling friendship. Having given our splendid lesson, let us present to the world another example, that of concord among ourselves, and make America safe for Americans and the loftiest example of representative democracy."

"Our country holds out opportunity to all but upon the supreme conditions that those who would avail themselves of that opportunity shall be entirely worthy and know and accept fully the spirit of American institutions."

After citing examples both in Richland and Marion of the making of Americans who were foreign-born, the senator concluded:

"Between Marion and Mansfield is an interesting illustration of national adjustment to the program of progress. The Erie railroad, once the old Atlantic and Great Western, was originally broad-gauged and single track. One day it was reduced to standard gauge in a few hours. Those of you who have noted it will recall that the original track follows one grade, the new track is builded to another."

"Is there not an application in the advancing way of America? We must cling to the sure route of splendid development and meet the new demands by so building as to eliminate the grades by which our activities are impeded."

In order to acquaint the public with the general telephone situation, and some of the reasons for delay in completing new installations—chief among which is the difficulty of getting the numerous kinds of necessary material—we have prepared a series of announcements of which this is the first.

The General Telephone Situation

The reason orders for new telephone service cannot be completed as promptly as in the past, and that some orders are delayed weeks or even months, is that we are trying to meet an abnormal demand for service with a sub-normal supply of the materials necessary to give service.

It is not unnatural for persons moving into a house which formerly had telephone service to assume that, because of that fact, service to them is readily possible. For this mistaken assumption we ourselves are chiefly responsible, because we used to talk about "renting" a telephone, and even bill subscribers for "monthly rental." Consequently the mind of the average subscriber is still focussed on the telephone instrument as the controlling factor of telephone service.

While the telephone instrument is indispensable, it is only one of more than a hundred essential parts of telephone equipment. Lacking any of these parts, a telephone switchboard would be as ineffective as an automobile without its carburetor.

Some of these parts are made by ourselves; others by dozens of specialty manufacturers in various parts of the country. We could increase production if we could get the raw material and the transportation. But with labor troubles in the wire-drawing mills came a shortage of the copper wire necessary for cable and switchboards. Scarcity of paper caused almost a famine of the special kind of paper necessary for the insulation of these copper wires in the cables. And then came freight embargoes, following railroad labor troubles, so that for three weeks this summer one of the largest cable manufacturing plants in the country had to shut down because it could neither get the necessary raw material into its plant nor the much wanted finished product out of its plant and on its way to us.

The desire of waiting customers for telephone service is not more keen than our desire to serve them at once. We want them to feel that we are earnestly trying to do this as rapidly and as fairly as possible.

PACIFIC COAST PORTS

Chambers of Commerce View Certain Trade Threats as Bluff

BY PAUL N. WILSON
(N.E.A. Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Japanese, British and other foreign owned ship companies do not intend to quit the Pacific coast ports of the United States and transfer operations to Canadian ports. In spite of threats to withdraw their ships immediately if the new Jones act, officially known as the merchant marine act of 1920, is enforced, no such action will be taken.

Convinced of this, after careful canvass of the situation, shippers and ship owners of the west are rapidly changing their viewpoint from one of hostility toward the law to one of open approval. Immediately following the passage of the act, designed to foster and protect the American merchant marine, sharp protest arose from many persons and organizations interested in foreign commerce on the Pacific coast. They feared foreign owned ships would be removed, that the United States shipping board would be unable to fulfill its promised allocation to take their place and that the act would invite foreign reprisals.

Chief objections were based upon the fear that if foreign owned bottoms, aggregating 52 per cent of the total coast tonnage, were removed, the shipping board would be in no position immediately to make good the loss, thus resulting in a complete demoralization of western and oriental export trade.

At present the shipping board controls only slightly over 500,000 of the 15,000,000 tons on the west coast. This would have to be increased by approximately 14,500,000 tons, should foreign ships be removed.

But, upon closer investigation, shipping officials here, at first dubious, now express confidence that this amount could easily be supplied if needed.

Trade Too Profitable

Foreign competitors will continue, even under the Jones act, to find their operations on the Pacific coast too profitable to remove their ships, contends the Pacific-American Steamship association, representing practically every steamship company on the Pacific coast under American registry.

While they still contend that rate wars will be inevitable and that healthy competition is the best way to build up a world trade, they feel that American owners, in their fight to build up a world commerce, are entitled to whatever protection they can be given without working a detriment to the country.

Reverse Attitude

Before much consideration had been given the act, practically every Pacific coast port made official protest to Washington against its enforcement. Now the Los Angeles chamber of commerce has endorsed the act by official action, the Seattle body reversed its position of antagonism and the San Francisco chamber has requested that the operations of section 28 be further suspended until Jan. 1, 1921, that its probable working out may be considered.

Section 28, against which active protest has been made, provides lower railroad charges for freight shipped on American vessels than in foreign.

CATHOLIC HOME AT NANTASKET OPENED

NANTASKET, Aug. 2.—The house and grounds of the new summer vacation home of the Catholic charitable bureau were blessed yesterday by Rev. Michael J. Scanlon, assisted by Rev. George B. O'Connor, chaplain of the Roxbury Legion post, A.L., and by the altar boys of the three Catholic churches of Hull and also by a group of Brighton seminarians. The summer home is to be the scene of vacations for poor children of Boston.

Rev. Fr. Scanlon made a short address after the dedication. After an explanation of the plans, he thanked the 500 in attendance for their interest in the bureau and for their donations to the fund.

The building is the gift of the Knights of Columbus. During the war it was used by the organization at Bumpkin Island as the K. of C. but for the sailors there. A few weeks ago it was donated to the Catholic charitable bureau. Cardinal O'Connor, who is much interested in the work, made a gift of the land. Last season the Vining villa at Stony Beach was used by the bureau.

Today the first group of 75 children will arrive to stay for a week's vacation.

Miss Catherine A. Harrington will serve as matron and Miss Florence O'Toole, a public nurse in the East Boston district, will be assistant matron. Miss Mary Hopkins of Peabody will be in charge of recreation. Students from St. John's seminary of Brighton will have charge of the boys during their vacation.

It is expected that within two weeks a large lawn party will be held to increase the fund. Many prominent permanent and summer residents have signified their intention of assisting.

Italy's coal needs are estimated at 750,000 tons monthly.

TIMELY HINTS

By Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture

The frequent near cloud bursts of the last few days have done a lot of damage in the local home gardens. Questions are coming to the county horticultural agent, whether or not a continuation of this is to be expected. No one can, of course, answer this question. It is always good garden practice to attempt to decrease the amount of damage done to the minimum. This is done by insurance. Insurance is in the nature of a cover crop, placed upon the soil as soon as crops are removed, or between the rows when the crops in the rows are not expected to cover up all the space. Among the better cover crops are legumes, which mean those plants which gather nitrogen from the air through their foliage and add to the soil through nodules upon the roots. Clover is one of the more common legumes. Alfalfa and alfalfa are used extensively by farmers. Timothy grass seed is also used extensively, especially in the Connecticut valley by the tobacco growers. These crops are not only improvers of the soil, but when spaded or plowed under another spring will very materially increase the value of the garden soil for products because of the large amount of humus added.

Crops to Plant

The season is advancing fast and there are only a few crops left which may be safely planted; late cabbage plants may be set, turnips and spinach seed may be planted. Turnips are not as a rule included in home gardens because of the prevalence of root maggots. Unless you know from past experience that they are not likely to be troublesome it is much wiser not to put in turnips.

Tomato Plants

The trimming and pruning of the tomato plants should be continued for some time yet. This, as already suggested, means nothing but cutting out the laterals which start at the axis of the leaves at the main stem. These, of course, must be tied to the stick or trellis upon which they are supposed to climb. Those home gardeners who are permitting the tomatoes to grow upon the ground would do well to save the lawn clippings or other humus material and place this under the vines upon the soil. This covering will prevent the fruit from getting dirty, keeping it dry and thus making conditions less favorable for development of blight and will act as a blanket upon the soil.

Do Not Kill Potatoes

The writer within a few days had the privilege of looking over the large home garden plots in Framingham. He found the practice which is so prevalent among people from foreign countries of hilling their potatoes to be very popular in this section. Doubtless other towns are as bad as Framingham. In this county, except on very heavy land, it has been found repeatedly to be very poor practice to hill potatoes. This is because hilling increases the area of the surface exposed to the air, heat from the sun and wind to dry the soil in a greater distance than it would if the soil was level or nearly level. Most potato planters try to get their seed in deep, and then not hill appreciably.

Spray Material

Do not forget that when you use the commercial products upon the market containing Bordeaux mixture, it is desirable to use them at least three times as strong as the manufacturers recommend.

In the first four months of this year, 62,569 Italians came to this country.

COMMUNITY FIELD DAY AT BILLERICA

Seventeen towns and cities of north and central Middlesex county will combine in a Community Field day at Billerica, Friday, August 6, under the auspices of the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics. The event will be a combination of educational and recreational features with special emphasis on a play festival during the afternoon.

Plans are being made for an attendance of more than 400 men, women, boys and girls. Billerica common and town hall will be the center of things. The party gathering there at 10 a. m. The men will take autos for a 3-hour excursion to 3 very fine farms. At Tower Farm, the first stop, the county agricultural agent, C. B. Tillson, will stage a stock judging contest, using dairy cows with known records. One of the best alfalfa plots in the county is located here and will be inspected.

A. R. Jenks, county horticultural agent, will act as guide at the Updams orchard owned by Harry Dunlap. This farm has a variety of apple trees. One 21 year old orchard of 36 trees produced 641 boxes of fruit last year. A 7 year old orchard contains 231 trees which have been sprayed 5 times a year. New trees were set last spring on a 1½ acre plot. Manager P. R. Kinney makes a practice of thinning and will explain his cost records.

The third stop will be at John E. Farmer's market garden where he has 11 acres in vegetable crops, including corn, cucumbers, tomatoes, carrots and celery. Mr. Farmer has 3 acres in cauliflower and received $1,000 per acre for the crop last season. On the return trip to the common, the party will inspect Charles Wright's stand of sweet clover which is higher than a man's head.

In the meantime, the women will be enjoying a clothing efficiency demonstration in the town hall under the direction of Miss Margaret L. Robinson, county home demonstration agent. This will be followed by a judging contest of canned fruits and vegetables. The boys and girls will be taken in charge by the county club agents with a special program of their own.

Promptly at 12:30 the different groups will come together to enjoy basket lunches. At 1:30 there will be an entertainment, including readings by Hoyt L. Conary of Waltham. Every one will have an opportunity to take part in the play festival from 2:30 until 4 o'clock. This will be directed by Manager P. D. Griggs of the county bureau, who has arranged a variety of sports and special events, concluding with several inter-town contests.

The field day has been scheduled for this particular time of year as a day of recreation following the rush of having season. Billerica is easily reached by trolley, train or auto. The towns for which the day is especially designated are: Dunstable, Tyngsboro, Dracut, Lowell, Tewksbury, Chelmsford, Billerica, Carlisle, Wilmington, North Reading, Reading, Woburn, Burlington, Bedford, Concord, Lincoln and Lexington. People from other sections of the county will be most welcome.

DEMANDS RATIFICATION IN TENNESSEE

WASHINGTON, August 3—Miss Alice Paul and her fighting suffragists yesterday sounded a warning to the leaders of the republican and democratic parties through their organ "The Suffragist," which says:

"If Tennessee fails to ratify, it will not be because Tennessee is not in favor of women voting, but because the national political parties are determined to keep them out of the elections next November."

"The suffrage plans in the platforms of the democratic and republican parties offer a test of the sincerity of the parties and the platforms," Miss Paul said. "This one alone of all the planks can be carried out immediately. Failure to carry it out before the elections would leave little reason to hope for the enactment of the other provisions of the platforms after the elections."

"Tennessee offers the first opportunity to the parties to prove the sincerity of their stand in favor of suffrage."

"A strong vote for suffrage in Tennessee is the one opportunity which

Livingstone Residence in Pelham Burned to Ground—Barn Burned

The residence and barn of the Livingstone family in Pelham, were struck by lightning during the storm last Saturday, and burned to the ground. The home was unoccupied at the time of the fire and although neighbors made every effort to combat the flames once the fire was discovered, they succeeded in saving only a small part of the furniture. The buildings were uninsured and in addition to their loss, William G. Livingstone, one of the occupants, lost $250 in bills which he had left in the house.

EVERY FLOWER HAS A STORY ALL ITS OWN

Consolation and oblivion is the significance of the poppy in the language of flowers. Even the ancients recognized the narcotic qualities of the plant, for Hypnos, the god of sleep, and Thanatos, the god of death, are always represented in old art as holding a poppy.

The Greeks and Romans used the petals of the poppy to test their love. One petal was placed in the palm of one hand and if upon being struck by the other, it snapped with a sharp sound, the loved one was faithful.

Old Indian Legend
An old Indian legend tells of a dervish living on the banks of the Ganges river who had a pet mouse. He was very fond of it and gave it the gift of speech.

A cat living in the neighborhood, however, molested the mouse, so the dervish changed it into a dog. The animal was still dissatisfied. So it was transformed into an ape, then a bear, an elephant and finally into a beautiful girl whom he called Postomani, meaning poppy-seed.

King Married Her
One day as she was in the garden, the king passed and having fallen in love with her, insisted upon being married at once by the dervish, and they lived happily. One day, however, Postomani was standing by a well and becoming dizzy, fell in. To console the king, the dervish told him the story of Postomani, and gave directions that the well be filled with earth. He told the king that out of her grave a plant would grow from which would be obtained a drug which would make the person using it be mischievous like a mouse, savage like a dog, filthy as an ape, wild like a bear and slow as an elephant. That is the effect the drug has to the present time.

Fire Destroys Entire Plant of Gage Co. at Forge Village and Seriously Endangers City's Ice Supply

LOSS WILL BE NEAR $125,000

Blaze of Unknown Origin Destroys Thousands of Tons of Pond Ice

Seven Houses and Stable Consumed in Less Than Three Hours

Enormous loss to property and thousands of tons of ice stored for consumption in Lowell occurred today, when fire of unknown origin raged for nearly three hours in the houses of the Gage Ice Co. on the shores of Forge pond, Forge Village, totally destroying five houses, two stacks and a stable.

With the ruins still smoldering at the present writing and with large piles of ice standing without the prospect of a retaining wall and in imminent danger of toppling to the ground, it is impossible to fairly estimate the loss in dollars and cents, but even a cursory glance at the ruins bears out the assumption that it will approximate $125,000. Miss Gage's statement this morning was that the loss will be very heavy and constitutes a serious blow to the business of the company.

On the personal side of the question looms high the realization that the fire has made serious inroads upon the city's supply of ice for the rest of the summer and undoubtedly Miss Gage will be forced into the open market to purchase from outside to meet local needs.

The five main houses, two stacks and the stable were converted into formless ruins by the flames between the time the fire was discovered at 5.30 o'clock and three hours later. It is estimated that about two-thirds of the maximum amount of ice was stored in the houses, representing approximately 35,000 tons. While some of it undoubtedly can be salvaged, it is a question as to its condition for household use. Thousands of cakes were destroyed by the heat and flames and so dangerous are the melting piles now that it will be some time before a survey can be made or arrangements completed by which the ice may be moved without endangering the lives of employees.

Two stacks, the stable and one of the main buildings from which ice had been taken were burned to ground level. The other four main houses were destroyed almost to their foundations.

Cong. Mason Declares Friends of Ireland in U. S. Will Vote for Harding

Predicts G. O. P. Victory by Majority "the Most Overwhelming Since Grant's"

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 2.—A prediction that Irish sympathizers will support Harding and Coolidge, was made by Representative William E. Mason of Illinois, one of the leaders of the fight in congress for Irish recognition, in a statement made public from Harding headquarters today, after he had conferred with the nominee.

"Friends of Ireland of course have to be for Harding," the statement said, "because they know what Article 10 of the league covenant means—it would bind Ireland to England forever and bind us to help keep it there, and Governor Cox has pledged himself to support the Wilson program."

Representative Mason predicted that the Republicans would carry Illinois by at least 200,000 and that the republican national ticket would be elected by a majority "the most overwhelming since Grant's."

Senator Harding began work today on his second front porch speech, which he will deliver Wednesday in a delegation of republicans of Wayne county, Ohio.

ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT

O. M. I. Cadets Will Spend Week in Camp at Milligan's Grove

Two special cars, bearing 150 or more happy members of the O. M. I. Cadets, left the Cadet army in East Merrimack street at 1.30 this afternoon and headed for Milligan's grove in Wilmington, where the young soldiers will spend the present week in camp.

The usual large crowd of relatives and friends saw the boys off. The cadets assembled in the army shortly after 12.30 in their khaki field uniforms and, after arranging their packs, formed in line to board the cars. They were in command of Colonel Alfred Burns. Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I. founder and spiritual director of the organization, accompanied the soldiers to camp and will remain with them throughout the encampment period. Two nurses were also in the party.

The usual program will be carried out this year under the direction of the officers. Setting up exercises, sports, swimming and military maneuvers will form the bulk of each day's activities. Visitors will be allowed after 2 o'clock each afternoon and a special program of sports will be carried out Thursday, which has been set apart as visitors' day. Camp will be broken Saturday afternoon.

PLOT TO FORCE HIGHER PRICES

Federal Officer Makes Charge Against Clothing Manufacturers and Jobbers

Propaganda "to Stampede Public Into Renewed Fictitious Demand"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Howard E. Figg, special assistant to the attorney general in the enforcement of the Lever law against profiteering, charged today that manufacturers and jobbers of wearing apparel were attempting through carefully prepared propaganda "to stampede retailers and the public into a renewed fictitious demand" for clothing and thereby force prices higher.

"The department of justice," said Mr. Figg, "is fully advised of the several phases of this carefully planned campaign and it only remains to fix responsibility before applying the criminal provisions of the Lever law."

In a formal statement, Mr. Figg charged that the manufacturers and jobbers were circulating propaganda "similar to that used to mislead the public during the recent speculative conditions."

"This speculative market," Mr. Figg continued, "toppled by its own weight last spring, when the public refused to, or could not buy at the unreasonable prices asked for wearing apparel."

"Manufacturers and jobbers are even going to the length of 'guaranteeing' the retail trade against a declining market," Mr. Figg said. "These 'guarantees' are being given very generally and seemingly in furtherance of a concerted plan, despite the wording of the Lever law fixing severe penalties for conspiracy to exact excessive prices for any necessities."

Mr. Figg called attention to instances where mills have been closed for the reason, he charged, of justifying market conditions on the plea of underproduction.

"The closing of the mills is in turn being used in the price propaganda," Mr. Figg asserted. "The retailer is then being threatened with further curtailment and higher prices if he does not accept goods and order on the present market."

TURKISH TREATY TO BE SIGNED THURSDAY

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The treaty of peace between the allies and Turkey will be signed Thursday, according to newspapers here. Premiers Millerand and Giolitti will hold a meeting in Sevey this week and it is expected that points in dispute between Italy and Greece relative to Asia Minor will be adjusted soon.

WE READ that out of 100 Healthy Men at the age of 25, in Forty Years,

1 only will have $25,000 or more; 4 will have between $10,000 and $25,000; 5 will be supporting themselves by their daily labor; 51 will be dependent upon relatives, friends or charity; 26 will be dead.

This may be true. If read in the newspaper it should be the truth. Most men are born with more than $25,000 in health or less than $25,000 in health. The statistician responsible for the above facts forgets that when one has health he has immeasurable wealth.

Crowd as Large as That of Early Days of Last Week Cash in Notes at Boston

Ponzi Denies Report That He is Returning Money at Expense of Others

BOSTON, August 2.—The Securities Exchange Co., headed by Charles Ponzi, whose alleged operations in foreign exchange are being investigated by United States Attorney Daniel J. Gallagher and Attorney General Allen of Massachusetts, continued today the payment of notes to those investors who presented their claims. The line of claimants awaiting attention was a long one extending from Plimouth, through City Hall avenue to Court square, and fully equalling that of the early days of last week, when at the request of investigating officials, Ponzi stopped taking in money. Ponzi's prompt return of funds to those who asked for them had the effect toward the end of last week of greatly diminishing the number of claimants, but today, there was evidence of a sudden renewal of the desire to cash the notes he had issued.

While his clerks were meeting these demands, returning the principal to those whose 90-day notes had not matured, and keeping it was said, the promise to pay 50 per cent. interest on matured notes, Ponzi himself issued a statement in denial of a published article by William H. Mcmasters, his former publicity agent, in which Mcmasters expressed the belief that Ponzi was hopelessly insolvent and was paying.

ATTY. GEN. ALLEN TALKS ON PONZI CASE

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Attorney General Allen issued a statement today in which he said that Ponzi if he saw fit could very easily furnish the means for determining, without delay, the truth of his statement about his business but that at a recent conference at the state house he declined to give the information. Mr. Allen said he was trying to arrange another interview with Ponzi.

"Mr. Ponzi in his statement in this office," Mr. Allen said, "did not claim that coupons have been purchased from the postoffice in such small quantities as could be bought over the counter, but he claimed he has agents in Europe who are in a position to buy those coupons in any amount desired from officials connected with foreign governments through arrangements or agreements which have been made by his representatives with the officials."

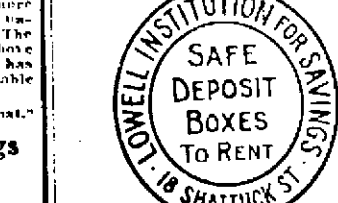

As a result of this, he declared his agents are in a position to obtain the reply coupons from countries where the value of the currency has depreciated in sufficient quantities to meet all amounts that have been deposited with him and that his agents in other countries where the exchange rate is substantially normal redeem coupons through officials of those governments who have agreements with his representatives.

"Mr. Ponzi, if he saw fit, could very easily furnish a means of determining without delay, the fullest truth to establish whether he has been conducting negotiations on a large scale in the purchase and redemption of those coupons. Up to the present, he refuses to disclose through whom the business has been conducted, either in New York or Europe. He further stated to me that he had been in correspondence with officials in Europe but had destroyed the correspondence, at least in part. He says his papers are deposited in a number of safe deposit vaults."

Mr. Allen said that he had not yet been able to ascertain whether any investigations dealing in foreign exchange have been representing Ponzi in New York. Asst. Dist. Atty. Albert Hurwitz, he said, had been in New York since Saturday and had been in communication with him this morning.

During the afternoon, Mcmasters, Ponzi's former publicity agent, was called into conference at the federal building with Assistant United States Attorney Shea, Postoffice Inspector Mosby and the auditor who is working on the books of the Securities Exchange Co.

In 1917, there were 161,574 persons in the United States, or less than two-tenths of one per cent. of the population, who reported incomes of over $10,000.

BOLSHEVIK FORCES RUSH ON IN HOT FIGHTING

The soviet cavalry also is reported pressing in northeast of Lemberg.

HAVERHILL SHOPS CLOSED

HAVERHILL, August 2.—Rejecting new price lists to take effect today, 29 cut, top lift and tap manufacturing concerns failed to open their shops this morning. About 600 employees are affected. The union claims a lockout. The new price list calls for increases ranging from 14 to 318 weekly. The factories have only been employing a third of their normal force for a month.

No Plans for a General Shutdown Are Under Consideration Here

Although the local mills have taken no concerted action whereby their operations will enjoy a general vacation at any given period this summer, as has been done in a number of the Lawrence mills, nevertheless, individual vacations will be granted very willingly to all employees wishing them, a number of local agents said today.

In the local hosier plants operatives are already working on short time and in the cotton and woolen mills there are no indications of overtime activity. In fact, the mill agents would be very little embarrassed should a fair proportion of their employees take vacations at varying periods. But as far as a general shutdown for a week or more is concerned, no mill has yet announced such a step. One agent admitted that it had been considered at his mill but that no decision has yet been reached. Should any of the mills find business sufficiently dull to warrant a shutdown, it would probably come from Aug. 23 to Sept. 7. There will, of course, be a shutdown from Sept. 4 to Sept. 7, the labor day week-end.

The case was continued to Aug. 11.

MAN STABS WIFE AND SELF AT LAWRENCE

LAWRENCE, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Olivia St. Sauveur, 43, of 10 Phillips street, was probably fatally stabbed about 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning. According to the police, her husband, Joseph St. Sauveur, 42, who it is alleged, did the stabbing, afterward tried to commit suicide. He gashed his throat, but did not seriously injure himself. St. Sauveur was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to kill. Jealousy is said to have been the motive for the deed.

The St. Sauveurs live in a three-tenement house, and neighbors say they have frequently quarreled. Their latest dispute was Saturday night. But according to their 20-year-old daughter and her husband, who live with them, they had apparently patched up their troubles before realizing.

Yesterday morning, according to Mrs. St. Sauveur, she was awakened by her husband who stood at her bedside with a penknife in his hand. Remarking, "We must die together," he began to stab her in the breast, she says. She beat him off and cried for help. Her daughter and son-in-law were awakened.

When he heard help coming, St. Sauveur, it is said, gashed his throat and ran from the house. The police officers saw him a few moments later, and noting his condition, arrested him. He was taken to the General hospital and then locked up.

Mrs. St. Sauveur collapsed soon after assistance came and was rushed to the hospital, where her name was placed on the danger list. She has 12 knife wounds in her body, one very near the heart. Her lung is punctured in two places.

The family came here four years ago from Easthampton, previous to which time they had lived apart for awhile. Mrs. St. Sauveur is a weaver in the Kalamazoo mills and her husband is night watchman in the same place.

WOMAN ADMITS KILLING HUSBAND

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Alexandra Sokolowsky, widow of Frank Sokolowsky, was arrested here last night, charged with the murder of her husband at their home at New Haven, Conn., on the morning of June 26.

The woman was taken to police headquarters, where, detectives said, she broke down and confessed she threw carbolic acid on her husband as he slept.

Mrs. Sokolowsky explained her act, detectives declared, by saying that her husband, who was a prominent labor leader, was a handsome man and she wanted to spoil his good looks after she found a letter written to him by another woman. Some of the acid is supposed to have been swallowed by Sokolowsky, causing his death.

Since her husband's death, Mrs. Sokolowsky said she has visited cities in New England and Canada and twice returned to New Haven. She told the police she came to New York a few days ago.

TRIES TO KILL WIFE THEN ENDS HIS LIFE

LEOMINSTER, August 2.—John Robinson, 77 years of age, committed suicide yesterday, after an attempt to murder his wife, who was in bed, by slashing her with a knife and then setting the bed clothes afire.

Their son, Thomas, hearing his mother's cries, went to her assistance. He pulled the flaming covers from the bed and carried them outdoors. When he returned he found that his father had shot himself.

Mrs. Robinson is expected to recover. The medical examiner said that Robinson was temporarily deranged.

WOMAN ATTEMPTS TO KILL HERSELF

BOSTON, August 2.—Mrs. Laura M. Bennett, 24 years old, of 31 Munroe street, is at the Lynn hospital, her name on the dangerous list, with an even chance of recovery, as a result of taking bichloride of mercury.

The woman was found lying in a door way at the corner of Washington and Munroe streets about 1 o'clock yesterday morning, by Patrolman Frank Teale.

She had written a note to Ranae Richard of South Common street, Lynn, telling him to take care of her daughter, saying "she could not stand it any longer." She said she loved him, but knew he liked somebody else better. Richard went to the Lynn police yesterday morning, and said he had known the woman, but had not seen her for three months.

Mrs. Bennett, according to the police, is divorced, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goodwin of 210 Centre street, Brockton. Her child is five years old. The daughter, she said, was her child by an unhappy marriage. Mrs. Bennett was a lodger at Munroe street.

FEW DISORDERS IN MEXICAN ELECTION

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 1.—Only a few minor disorders marred the congressional elections throughout Mexico today. Detailed reports of the result are not yet available but there are indications that the liberal constitutionalists or government party was victorious.

An urgent request for the postponement of the presidential election for at least three months has been wired to Provisional President de la Huerta, by Ezequiel Cantu, governor of Lower California, according to advices received by the newspaper Excelsior.

The dispatch states that Gov. Cantu said that elections held prematurely would be regarded by the people as a means for imposing a single presidential candidate upon the country. He said to declare that the tragic death of President Carranza was an additional reason for postponing the selection of a new chief executive.

POLES ARRIVE FOR ARMISTICE SESSION

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Polish plenipotentiaries appointed to negotiate an armistice agreement with representatives of the Russian bolshevik government, have arrived at Baranovitch, where the armistice conference will be held, according to advices received here from Warsaw.

DOUBT AGREEMENT FOR ARMISTICE

WARSAW, Aug. 1.—(By Associated Press) Doubt was expressed today in diplomatic circles here as to whether an agreement for an armistice would come out of the negotiations between the Polish and soviet emissaries at Baranovitch. It was thought that the soviet authorities were likely to insist upon terms too severe for the Poles to accept.

The Polish delegates carried with them into the Russian lines a portable wireless outfit which they intended to use for communication with Warsaw. Officials said this afternoon, however, that it might be days before the negotiations were heard from.

DEBS HALTS MOVE FOR HIS RELEASE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Eugene V. Debs, socialist candidate for president, has put his foot down on the movement started by his friends to obtain his release from the federal prison.

Writing from the Atlanta penitentiary, Debs declared that so long as his comrades "are held criminals and convicts" his place was there. The letter, sent to Mrs. Lucy Robins, secretary of the Central Labor Bodies' Conference of New York, and made public here today, said:

"Please say to the comrades in New York that while I appreciate fully all that has been done in my behalf, I object emphatically to any further appeal being made for me only to President Wilson. I wish no special consideration, and I wish to fare no better than my comrades.

NINTH MARQUIS OF QUEENSBERRY DEAD

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Aug. 1.—Percy Sholto Douglas, ninth Marquis of Queensberry, is dead here, according to announcement.

The ladies of St. John's Catholic mission at North Chelmsford conducted a most successful lawn party on the grounds surrounding the home of Robert Donahue in Billerica street, Chelmsford, Saturday afternoon and evening. There were many booths about the lawn where there was a brisk sale of refreshments. A number of amusement enterprises were also well patronized. The Middlesex County Training school band under the direction of James P. Larkin of North Chelmsford furnished music during the afternoon and evening. The affair was under the general direction of Miss Mary E. Hill.

3 KILLED ON CROSSING

J. Frank Hanley, Dry Leader, and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Baker Accident Victims

DENNINGTON, Ohio, Aug. 2.—J. Frank Hanley, former governor of Indiana and candidate for president on the prohibition ticket in 1916, and Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Baker of Kilgore, Ohio, were killed six miles from here early yesterday when a Pennsylvania freight train struck the automobile in which the party were driving to Kilgore.

All three suffered fractured skulls and crushed bodies and none recovered consciousness after being brought to a local hospital.

Mr. Hanley died at 9 a. m. Mrs. Baker died at 11:30 and her husband at 3:30 p. m. Dr. and Mrs. Baker had met Mr. Hanley in Dennington at 6:15 o'clock yesterday morning and were driving him to their home in Kilgore 29 miles from here. The Baker automobile drove across the Pennsylvania tracks back of one freight train and directly in front of another. The automobile was struck squarely.

RESTRICTIONS ON COAL EXPORTS TO AID N. E.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Restrictions on the export of coal and on the re-assignment of coal cars and a temporary reduction in the water coal rates to New England were suggested yesterday by Senator William M. Calder, chairman of the special senate committee on reconstruction and production, as a means of relieving the acute coal shortage, especially in New York and New England. These suggestions, arising out of information obtained at recent committee hearings, were contained in letters sent to the Interstate Commerce commission and the United States Shipping board.

In his letter to the Interstate commission, Senator Calder pointed out that allegations had been made that priority orders issued by the commission in the past had proved ineffective. It has been charged, he said, that cars diverted to the coal trade by recent priority orders are held in transit for speculative purposes, making most urgent the enforcement of orders by the commission preventing more than one re-assignment of coal cars.

Attention of the commission also is called to representations made to the senate committee as to the necessity of curtailing shipments of coal abroad in order to conserve the supply for domestic needs. It has been pointed out, senator Calder said, that this curtailment "would relieve the domestic shortage of coal and would release cars for general industry."

In his letter to the Shipping board, Senator Calder set forth that some coastwise shipping is reported to be lying idle awaiting charter and this situation is accentuated because the present cost of transporting coal to New England by water is "some 22 greater than the cost of all rail coal transportation." As a remedy, the senator suggested a reduction, during the present emergency, in water coal rates to New England, in place of the increase in rates which the committee has been advised is impending.

There are 20,000,000 homes in the United States.

READY FOR "JAMBOREE"

Boy Scouts Celebrate Their 12th Anniversary in London This Week

BY MILTON BRONNER, European Manager N.E.A. LONDON, Aug. 2.—What rhymes with noise?

Boys. You said it! Well, this old capital of the British empire expects to have more boys and more noise this week than ever assembled in one place before in the whole history of the world. The reason is that the Boy Scouts are going to celebrate their 12th anniversary by a "Jamboree."

For the first time in the history of the movement there will be a gathering of Boy Scouts from all over the globe. They will contest in Olympia, one of the biggest buildings in London, for championships in various scout tasks.

Boys From All Over Following are the countries which will send lads here and the numbers to be sent:

America, 350; Belgium, 100; Holland, 350; France, 125; Italy, 100; Japan, 3; Luxembourg, 100; Portugal, 10; Rumania, 7; Chile, 10; Serbia, Argentina, Spain, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Sweden, Greece, Switzerland, Norway and Poland, 50 each.

Boy Scouts will be here from all parts of the British empire, those from Australia having arrived early in July. Five thousand of these visitors from overseas will be encamped at Richmond park and the American boys will be there, too. There are 40,000 Boy Scouts in London alone and they will all take part.

When the 350 American Boy Scouts return home they will certainly know something about England.

They landed here about the middle of July and had over a week's vacation at Bournemouth, one of the most famous of English seaside resorts.

Garage of Government They, together with all the foreign Boy Scouts who came here, are virtually the guests of the British government. Their sleeping quarters and their food are furnished them.

In addition to that, visits to the following places are on the program: House of parliament, Tower of London, Westminster abbey, Alhambra, celebrated music hall, Windsor, home of English kings, Eton, noted boys' school, Hampton court, a royal palace.

The competitions in which the Boy Scouts will engage will consist of tug-of-war, obstacle races, exhibition contests in metal working, shoemaking, carpentry, cooking, gardening, etc.; bugling, band playing.

The most interesting of all contests will be those for the world's scout championship between teams to consist of not less than 24 nor more than 150 scouts. Mark will be given for the most original treatment of such subjects as fire fighting, ambulance work, accidents such as train collisions, aeroplane crashes, shipwrecks, floods, earthquakes and runaway horses.

Which way does the head face? Head covered or uncovered, if so, how?

Is there lettering? What? The back of the coin, now—What is the design? The lettering?

If you can describe any silver coin, or even the good old five-cent piece that used to be good for so many things and isn't now, why you can pass to federal reserve notes and silver certificates.

HOW MUCH DO YOU KNOW ABOUT MONEY? Money? You've been in a scramble for it these many years. You've had, since the first dollar you ever earned, thousands of dollars in your hands.

But, it's an easy bet that the proverbial rich man would have an easier time crawling through the pearly gates after driving a camel through the eye of a large needle than for the same rich man to describe the coins and greenbacks in his pocket.

How much do you know about the money in your pocket this minute? Take the new dime, for example, or the old one: What head appears on its face?

LOCAL FIRES OVER THE WEEK-END The fire department was kept fairly busy over the week-end with minor blazes. At 10 o'clock Saturday night Hose 7 was called to the home of John J. Sheehan at 7 Mill street where a curtain was on fire. There was no damage.

WALL PAPER TALKS

After having the measurements of the rooms you wish Wall Paper for, the next thought should be the light effects in each room. We all know that color in the wall hangings makes or mars the room. Certain colors are best for certain lighted rooms. For instance, a yellow or soft tan is best for north lights. Blue has a tendency to make a room cold. Our salespersons know and appreciate the effect of colors and are always glad to extend to you the lessons experience has taught them.

NEW MOVE TO BAR ARCH-BISHOP MANNIX

QUEENSTOWN, Ire., Aug. 2.—The White Star liner Celtic, due here Sunday night with 300 passengers for this city, has been ordered to proceed direct to Liverpool. It is surmised the Baltic, upon which Archbishop Mannix of Australia sailed from New York yesterday, will be directed to take a similar course.

The Press association says neither White Star nor Cunard liners will call at Queenstown to land passengers until further notice.

Mannix Still a Problem

DUBLIN, Aug. 2.—Should Archbishop Mannix of Australia be forced to proceed direct to Liverpool the question arises here as to how the government can prevent his coming to Ireland.

Until a few months ago a permit was required to land in Ireland, but this regulation was abolished. It is suggested that it might be revived, as has been the rule regarding government search of passengers' baggage.

Large numbers of Irish bishops and priests from Australasia are at present visiting Ireland and intimation has been given that they will form a body-guard for Archbishop Mannix if he is permitted to land.

The archbishop of Sydney, Australia, who has been visiting Ireland, yesterday preached a sermon sympathizing with the Sinn Fein.

The Cunard line steamer Caronia, carrying some Irish passengers, arrived at Liverpool yesterday on the voyage from New York, instead of going first to Queenstown, as has been the custom.

Ordering of the Celtic and Caronia to proceed direct to Liverpool, it is pointed out, will inflict heavy financial loss on the port, where the hotels laid in large supplies for thousands of passengers expected to land from the steamers.

Agents of the companies say their instructions so far only relate to the Celtic and the Caronia.

Increases in Effect Sept. 1

value permitted by the transportation act.

Since the commission fixed the aggregate value of all the lines at $18,500,000,000, the net operating income would be approximately $1,151,000,000, as compared with the $525,000,000 standard return the roads have received during the period of federal control and since.

Coastwise and inland steamship companies and electric railway lines are permitted, under the interstate commerce commission's decision, to raise only freight rates. Nothing was said by the commission as to passenger rates on the steamship lines, but the decision did say specifically that the freight rate increase granted electric railway lines was "not to be construed as an expression of disapproval of increases made or proposed in the regular manner in the passenger fares of electric lines."

While the commission authorized separate freight rate increases to the railroads in the four separate territories, the increase on freight, moving from one territory into another will be 33-1-3 per cent.

Urgent Request for Separate Increase

Creation by the commission on its own motion of the Mountain-Pacific territory was unexpected. The western roads as a whole had joined in asking for an increase of 32.3 per cent., but the southwestern lines later at the public hearing asked that they be given separate treatment and a freight increase of approximately 32 per cent. The commission did not grant this request, saying that it had been opposed by many shippers and by other carriers in the western group.

"The record shows," said the commission, "that the principal railroads serving the territory west of the Colorado common points, especially the so-called transcontinental railroads, as a whole, are in a substantially better financial condition than other carriers in the western territory. It also shows that the rates, generally speaking, are materially higher in the region west of the Colorado common points than in the part of the western territory lying east thereof. Considering the whole situation it is our view that the territory west of the Colorado common points and the traffic to and from that territory may properly be given separate treatment."

Needs of N. E. Roads

The commission also said that the carriers in New England had brought to its attention "the peculiar financial needs" of the railroads in that territory and in its general conclusions regarding the freight increases it said:

"While the New England carriers are included in the percentage for that group, the evidence as to the disproportionate needs of the New England lines makes it desirable that the carriers give careful consideration to the division of joint rates according to these lines."

The surcharge of 50 per cent. on sleeping and parlor car space is to accrue wholly to the railroads. This charge was opposed by the Pullman Co. on the ground that it would reduce the travel in cars of that type, but the commission held that a charge of this character "has much in its favor" as "unquestionably the service is more valuable to the passenger and more expensive to the rail carriers."

Reasons Very Persuasive

WASHINGTON, August 2.—"Reasons requiring an increase of interstate rates are very persuasive of the need for increase in intrastate rates," declares a report sent to various state railway commissions today, by the three representatives of those commissions who sat with the Interstate Commerce commission during public hearings on the billion and a half dollar railroad rate case.

"When all matters are considered," says the report, "and remembering that where 13 men are considering controverted questions and proposed policies, their differences of opinion must be composed or decided by the majority, we believe that the conclusion, considering all things, is just and fair and we give it our approval."

"The increased rates permitted under the ruling in ex-parte 11 will probably go into effect September 1, 1920. The operating revenues of the railroads under present rates and conditions are recognized by all persons as insufficient. A part of the responsibility to meet the situation rests upon the state commissions. Such increases as will be made in intrastate rates should, if possible, be made effective September 1, 1920."

The report is signed by William D. Rainey, chairman of the public service commission of Pennsylvania; Royal C. Dunn of the Florida railroad commission, and John A. Guiter, of the Iowa railroad commission.

"We participated in the conference"

In the same manner as members of the commission," the state commissioners' report declares, "being invited by them to take part in the discussions and express our views with full freedom. The members of the commission gave to the case intense and efficient application, examining and discussing it with the evident desire to reach correct conclusions and apply the increase in such manner to deal justly with the whole country."

Stock Market Active

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Speculative and investment sentiment was hopelessly disposed at the outset of business today as a result of the sweeping advances in railroad, passenger and freight rates granted by the interstate commerce commission.

The news brought in a large volume of buying orders from all over the country which imparted considerable activity to the initial dealings, with substantial improvements in all quarters of the list. Railroad shares of all descriptions were absorbed on a steadily rising scale with the advances ranging from 1 to 3½ points.

Representative dividend paying stocks, such as New York Central, Northern Pacific, Reading, Great Northern preferred, South Pacific and Union Pacific, made the most headway, but there were numerous gains approximating two points in the more speculative shares such as New Haven, Pittsburg and western, Rock Island and St. Louis southwestern preferred.

POPULATION OF

GEORGIA 2,893,601

WASHINGTON, August 2.—The census bureau today made the following announcement of population figures: State of Georgia 2,893,601, increase of 284,450, or 10.5 per cent. (Incomplete because of omission of one enumeration district.)

CUTTING THE FOOD COST

You can't expect the price of food to come down until the people produce more food. In spite of the high cost of wheat and labor Shredded Wheat Biscuit sells at a very little advance over the former price—so small you will hardly notice it. Shredded Wheat is all food—the most real food for the least money. Saves fuel and kitchen bother. Two Biscuits with milk make a satisfying, nourishing meal.

CAPITAL AND LABOR

This is a time when all classes in this country should exercise due caution in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the nation and its people. In other words it is a time when wise leadership is necessary and when the people employed in our industries should think for themselves rather than accept the statements of irresponsible agitators or leaders who are disposed to jump at conclusions.

Our attention has been called to an article recently published and credited to a labor leader in which he made the statement that for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, the value of our exports exceeded that of our imports by a total of $13,351,000,000. Now the actual amount according to United States statistics was $1,129,000,000, which shows that by some strange error this official based his arguments upon false premises. But his remarks are worth examining on account of their further misleading extravagance. Continuing, he said:

"This means that the workers of the United States supported themselves, supported the unemployed within their ranks, supported the entire military forces within the confines of the country, supported the vast body of useless political functionaries and investigation committees, supported the capitalist class and all their hangers-on, and on top of all this produced enough food, clothing, shelter, fuel and other commodities to export nearly thirteen and one-half billions' worth more in a single year than was imported."

Increase production? Produce more necessities? What for? Aren't the workers now producing billions of dollars' worth more than their wages will buy back—more than they are permitted to consume? Is increased production the solution for the problems confronting the workers? The figures you have just read say "No." The problem for the workers is not increased production, but increased consumption. Not how to produce more, but how to consume more.

It would be difficult to produce a more vicious or more misleading piece of advice than that here quoted, and we feel that every honest workman should at least be shown wherein such statements are wrong and that if followed they will have an effect that will injure all concerned, but particularly the working people.

It is such utterances as those quoted that incite the toilers unjustly against the capitalists upon whom they must depend for employment. Some extremists have gone so far as to claim that the total product of labor by manipulating labor saving machinery belongs to labor and that what the capitalists claim is taken dishonestly.

As a result we find socialists going up and down the land advocating an equal distribution of property on the ground that what capitalists have accumulated has been secured unjustly by extortion from the laboring people. As usual the capitalist gets no credit or allowance for the plant, the machinery and the enterprise in establishing the industry and conducting it to a success.

It would be well if we could give a mathematical statement of the proportion which capital and labor contribute respectively to the finished factory product in any particular case. All we can judge from is the relative work performed by each with a fair compensation for both. On this question we can only reach an approximate solution.

Bulletin 102, part 5, issued by the Smithsonian Institution estimates that the amount of power actually in operation in the United States is about 150,000,000 horsepower and second, that this power is equal to the labor of 3,000,000,000 hard working men.

It is also estimated that the number of people employed in gainful occupations in the United States is 40,000,000. This is also a government estimate. It would seem to follow, therefore, that capitalism is contributing 77 times as much energy to the work of production and distribution as is labor. Nevertheless, it cannot be shown that capital receives more than 20 per cent of the benefits accruing. Thus while capital provides three-fourths of the energy of production, it does not receive more than one-fifth of the proceeds. Capital supplies the power and facilities for which labor would willingly give half or two-thirds of its products, provided they were obtainable at lower prices. Capital also provides the plans, the organization and the management that make the power and machinery more effective, and for this service charges only 10 to 20 per cent of the product.

The value and necessity of capitalism to any country can be judged only from the backward conditions prevailing in countries in which there is no capital to start industries, to organize great enterprises and employ labor saving machinery. China, Russia and other countries, none of which has any semblance of industrial prosperity, are examples of what we too would have if capital were banished.

In Russia capitalism even in its primitive form has been wiped out and now the country has no organization except the government to start up industries and provide work for the people. That system is bound to fail if results be taken as the test.

Capital and labor are necessary to each other and neither can attain prosperity without the other. For this reason, it is best for both that they co-operate as far as possible and make a fair division of the profits, paying the laborer for his toil and the capitalist for his services in running the business and for the use of his capital which if placed in a bank instead of a mill, a railroad or a factory would earn a fair amount of interest without calling for any effort on the part of the owner.

It is true that combinations of capital are dangerous and that they must be restrained by law in order to protect the people against greed, monopoly and profiteering. But at the same time, it is all important that capital as well as labor be duly protected in the exercise of all its legitimate functions.

It would be well if certain labor leaders who are continually assailing capital would learn to what an extent all of us are dependent upon the functions of capital for the rare opportunities of advancement which we now enjoy in this republic.

UNITED PARTY FOR COX

Judging from the present outlook the democratic party is closing its ranks for a first class fight. Senator Walsh and others who might have been regarded as lukewarm are out with declarations in support of the ticket. Mr. McAdoo, who lost the nomination by a narrow margin, has declared that he will go on the stump for the democratic ticket.

Governor Cox is making a good impression everywhere and the political darts directed at his head by republican rivals, do not seem to have much effect. He has been accused of falling into the Wilsonian policy on the League of Nations, but his new political manager announces that he will deal with that question by an original method of his own. He has not accepted the Wilson dictum on the League of Nations or any other question. He stands squarely on the democratic platform which in every feature is more practical, direct, positive and statesmanlike than the republican.

In order to avoid a party split the republicans evaded some of the main issues in their platform. That is particularly true of their stand on the League of Nations, the plank on which may mean anything or nothing. It recalled the story of an officer on the field of battle who took command as captain of a detachment under rather trying circumstances after a superior officer had fallen. He wanted to find the attitude of his men toward further resistance.

"My men, will we fight or will we run?" he shouted.

"We will," answered the men with loud acclaim.

"Will we, or will we not?" he persisted.

"We will not," responded the men.

"All right, my men. I knew you wouldn't," said the captain.

What the captain and his men actually meant to do in that case is left quite as clear as what the republican party means to do with the League of Nations.

The lines of the democratic campaign will not be finally declared until Governor Cox makes his speech of acceptance. He can be relied upon, we believe, to adopt a plan of campaign that will be generally acceptable and to take a stand in favor of democratic principles that will bring to his support many of the elements which had been wavering in their allegiance to the democratic party.

Samuel Gompers has come out

in support of Governor Cox and the democratic ticket as "that which offers the best assurance of fair treatment for labor as well as for every other class of citizens in the nation."

Mr. Gompers sounds a note of warning against what he perceives to be a movement to coerce labor, through actual shut-downs. He recognizes that as an old-time republican method; but he cautions republican leaders and capitalists against resorting to it at this time, when the cry is for production, greater production.

Everywhere there is condemnation of strikes and the agitation for shorter hours, but equally are the factories open to ensure for curtailment or, worse still, suspension for political purposes.

It is a very grave charge to make against certain republican interests; but what they have done in the past they may do again; and Mr. Gompers may not be wholly astray when he charges wilful and unnecessary curtailment for political effect.

The warning has been given and from now until the end of the campaign, all cases of extended wage or work reduction will be subjected to the greatest scrutiny.

The woolen business has been more or less demoralized as already stated in this paper; but there are certain cases of curtailment and suspension which are not regarded as due entirely to business reasons.

There is no ground for the charge that the continuance of a democratic administration means industrial stagnation. If we are to judge of republican capacity to set things moving from the record of the republican congress, there would be no incentive to support the republican ticket. The party lives mainly on its past reputation and the past never returns and, while history does occasionally repeat itself, there is little probability that the future of the republican party will ever rise to the dignity of its past.

Premier Hughes, of Australia, says that "the hope of the peace of the world lies in the firm alliance and understanding that has existed between England and America for 100 years." For the sake of historical accuracy we should like to inquire where that "firm alliance and understanding" was when the Alabama was being fitted out in English shipyards to prey on American commerce and Ambassador Charles Francis Adams told Lord Palmerston, "This means war?" Where was it when the British government demanded and obtained the release of the rebel commissioners, Mason and Slidell, from their prison in Boston harbor? Where was it when Secretary of State Olney told John Bull that he must take his grip from the throat of Venezuela or fight?

It is something of an insult to the people of Lowell to think that any considerable number of them would wish to dance in a place where they would annoy the sick patients in a hospital.

Get-rich-quick schemes would be better worth considering if any money that might be picked up through them had the same value as dollars earned by honest toil.

Even interest in the Red Sox and Braves games lags in Boston with such an enthralling problem as "How did Ponzi do it?" to discuss.

An intimate connection may be developed between two holidays a week for the coal mine workers, and cold homes for other toilers, before another winter is ended.

Sir Thomas is to leave the Shamrock over here. That ought to be a good omen that he will come back again.

Whether the price of shoes has fallen seems to depend in some cases upon how prosperous a prospective purchaser appears to be.

Now that it has been announced that there are plenty of freight cars for Lowell, let's hope that the next good news will be "plenty of coal."

It does seem as though it was crowding the mourners a bit to ask Draconian citizens to hold a special town meeting and vote larger appropriation in mid-summer.

SEEN AND HEARD

It is never too late to learn that it is best to be early.

The disquieting microbe of love gives the old bachelor a wide berth.

The man foolish enough to pay 50 cents for a drink of "moonshine" ought not to kick about it.

It has been remarked that some people get credit for being patient; when, in reality, they are too cowardly to start something.

The Side Wheeler

There was a time when such a thing as the "side wheel" was known, and it was not uncommon, either. The effect of intoxicants on some men is to make them walk sideways with one shoulder lowered. But the only side-wheeler seen nowadays is the pacing horse.

Gave Three Cheers

It is just 810 years ago today that King William I (Rufus) was killed while hunting in the New Forest in Hampshire and every one of the Saxon subjects of this Norman monarch gave three cheer cheers. The Normans made a hunting preserve wherever they fancied to and dealt much concentrated misery to the natives who poached therein. So, when Sir Walter Tyrrel's crossbow bolt went wild and put a period after the king's name, all of the natives were much obliged.

The Family Reunion

The open season for family reunions is at hand. Aunt Lucy has baked several editions of her spice cake. Ma has ironed out sister's newest frock and tied on her big pink sash, not to speak of washing brother's neck and ears and making him put on the Sunday shoes that squeak so. Well-filled baskets are being tucked, with the kids, into the back seat. Dad has filled up the gas tank, and given 'er a quart of oil, and the folks, bless 'em, are on the way. The joyful meeting at the old fair grounds is the herald for all kinds of hilarity, reminiscences and casual inspection of the relations. Uncle William, who is 30, insists on showing that he can dance as well as the youngest there, by crickery. Here is Cousin Matilda, who has been twice to Yurrupe, wearing the same black alpaca that she wore when she visited Buckingham Palace. Out of the 75 to 200 people present, only two or three of the aged uncles and aunts who used to widen the children's eyes with Civil War tales, are left. There is a new crop of family heroes now, one of them, Cousin Al, with a Croix de Guerre, though he doesn't wear it. And so the family foregather, in a thousand communities, large and small, and so again it scatters. And the aging members nod their heads and sagely say, with a great, inclusive satisfaction: "Blood is thicker than water, after all."

Live in Love

Be not harsh and unforgiving. Live in love, 'tis pleasant living. If an angry man should meet thee, And assail thee with ill-doing, Turn not thine angry face and rend him. Let him needlessly offend him. Show him love hath been thy teacher— Kindness is a potent preacher; Gentleness is ever forgiving— Live in love, 'tis pleasant living.

Why be angry with each other? Man was made to love his brother: Kindness is a human duty. Meekness is a celestial beauty. Words of kindness, spoke to season. Have a weight with men of reason; Don't be others' follies blaming. And their little voices naming; Charity's a cure for railing. Suffer much, is all prevailing. Courage, then, and be forgiving; Live in love, 'tis pleasant living.

Let thy loving be a passion, Not a complimentary fashion; Live in wisdom, ever proving True philosophy is loving. Hast thou known that bitter feeling, Rendered by our hate's concealing? Better love, though ever so blindly, 'E'en thy foes will call it kindly. Words are wind; ah, let them never Friendship's golden love-cord sever! Nor be angry, though another Scorn to call thy friend or brother. "Brother," say, "let's be forgiving; Live in love, 'tis pleasant living."

Foreign Exchange

"This," said the bootlegger, "is a quart of Haig and Haig, the real foreign stuff, smuggled into this country under a Derby hat. Twenty dollars takes it away and if you don't want it, I can get twenty-two some place else." "And it only costs three dollars over in England?" mused the tipsy buyer. "Yes, but this is a different country. Remember this has got the foreign stamp on it. Real foreign, that's what it is."

"Um—," mumbled the drunk, "now I know how they make so much money on this foreign exchange," and he slipped out of the alley.

At the beginning of the nineteenth century, temperance societies favored coffee houses to take the place of saloons.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

I had occasion a few days ago to purchase a game of "Authors." What surprised me most, perhaps, was that I was able to buy it. But it seems that down in Salem there is a concern that makes a business of supplying the material for about every kind of indoor pastime for which there is any demand. That it is still turning out the venerable old game shows that there must be a few old fashioned young or old people who still have a fondness for "calling" for the works of the different great writers making them into "books." Memories of many a long, quiet, happy winter evening playing "Authors" will be recalled by people now nearing the "lean and shivering" stage of Shakespeare's "Seven Ages," and perhaps more than a few of them would acknowledge that a reputation they acquired in later life for literary attainments rested upon no more secure a foundation than their acquaintance with the names and works of celebrities gained in playing "Authors." I found one very modern thing connected with the game, however, when I purchased it. The price had advanced something like 200 per cent over what it used to be in the good old days "hero de war." There is another game that seems to have come down to us from a long, distant past and that still retains at least some shreds of its once great popularity. That is croquet. It was played everywhere in the days when young women wore hoop skirts. It persisted through the days of the "bustle" and the "balloon" sleeves, and is evidently still something of a favorite now that short skirts, sneakers, sun-burned arms and throats are the order of the day.

BIG REPUBLICAN RALLY

Whitney Playground in Westford Scene of Republican League Outing

Republicans from 14 Middlesex county towns and cities of this section gathered on the Whitney playground at Westford Saturday for the first big outing of the season under the auspices of the Republican League.

It was a typical G.O.P. gathering and bare out the contention of the party leaders, that a little fun must be mixed into the political salad if the men and women are to be brought around the rallying post in large numbers.

Thunder heads threatened for an hour or more but the Merrimack river to the north and west kept the impending shower under her own valley and the "outingers" came through dry shod. The setting for the affair, therefore, was just about as perfect as possible, with high party leaders in attendance, including Hon. John Jacob Rogers, Joe Mitchell Chapple and Captain Daniel A. McKay, the three speakers.

Aspirants for state offices were everywhere and opponents gripped hands in front of the pictures of Harding and Coolidge that covered the whole of one side of the schoolhouse on the eastern side of the playground. In every respect it was a gathering preparatory to the coming national campaign, with the fight for state offices trailing along just a stride behind.

There was band music by the Abbot Worsted Co. musicians, addresses by the three speakers mentioned, spirited community singing by Albert Edmund Brown, refreshments galore and an excellent baseball game between the Abbot Worsted team and the Fore River shipyard of Quincy. This was won by the "home" nine, by the way, 5 to 0.

Congressman Rogers confined himself to campaign issues, chiefly coal and sugar, and charged Attorney General Palmer with the responsibility of the present scarcity of the former and exorbitant prices being demanded for the latter necessary of life. "He has not even attempted to use the corrective laws at his command," Mr. Rogers said, "and while he has assured us that the cost of living is being reduced, we see no signs of it in our monthly bills or as we pay as we go."

Joe Mitchell Chapple brought a personal word from Senator Warren G. Harding, whose biography he has been asked to write. He has recently returned east from Marion, Ohio, and with characteristic ability painted a vivid word-picture of the republican nominee. Capt. McKay confined himself to the work of the party in Massachusetts as being carried on under the auspices of the league.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

THE TWINS MAKE A VISIT

When Tingaling, the fairy landlord, would have kept him about ten stories high. So Oliver Oriole and the twins climbed at once to the next floor in Maple Tree flat, where Oscar lived, and knocked gently. They thought it best to find out first if Tingaling was really there, before planning his rescue.

When the knock came Oscar Owl jumped in surprise. He wasn't expecting callers and he wondered who in the world it could be, so he peeped out cautiously.

"How do you do?" said Nick, boldly.

Up on the dumb-waiter with Oscar Owl's garbage can, and I am afraid something will happen to him. If Mr. Owl is hungry, dear knows what he'll do."

"But what can we do?" asked Nancy, anxiously.

"I'm sure I don't know," panted Munchie. "You'll just have to go up and see. I can't go with you, because I'm very busy downstairs today." But everybody knew that if Oscar Owl had lived downstairs, Munchie's work day considered a request of Joseph E. Doyle of Shanghai, that the work of the order be extended to China. Business sessions will begin tomorrow morning after celebration of solemn pontifical mass in St. Patrick's cathedral by Archbishop Bonzano, papal delegate to Washington.

HARDING HAS QUIET DAY

Rests After Opening Front Porch Campaign—Sen. McCormick on League

MARION, O., Aug. 2.—Tired from a week of hard work, which had kept him at his desk early and late, Senator Harding spent a Sunday of almost complete relaxation from the cares of the campaign. Most of the day he remained at home resting and only once or twice did he look in at his office in the administration building next door. He and Mrs. Harding had dinner with a party of neighbors and in the afternoon chatted with friends who dropped in for Sunday calls. They did not attend services during the morning as usual, their church being closed because of the illness of the pastor.

The senator's only conference during the day was with Representative William E. Mason of Illinois, who has been one of the leaders in congress for recognition of the Irish republic. Mr. Mason said he only had come to Marion to pay his respects to the nominee, but he indicated that he might have a statement to make later about their talk.

Today Senator Harding will go to work on the second of his front porch speeches, to be delivered Wednesday. Another will follow on Thursday, the delegations in both cases coming from the neighboring Ohio cities. That the republican nominees will not permit the democrats to evade the League of Nations issue was reiterated from the Harding headquarters yesterday in a statement by Senator McCormick of Illinois, who came to Marion to confer with Senator Harding. The Illinois senator, who is attached to national headquarters, declared "the solemn referendum which Dr. Wilson has sought" would be carried out.

The democratic attitude he characterized as "amusing" in view of recent utterances by republican statesmen. "In an official statement published in London papers now received here," Senator McCormick's statement continued, "the British prime minister says that obviously the covenant must be revised in order to secure American adhesion to any league, and that it will be revised for the better. Lord Grey proposes that a new president, in consultation with the senate, shall be invited to re-write the entire plan for a concert among the nations and warns against accepting again as representatives of the American people the personal views of a party leader."

It is the plain truth that in France and England responsible public men bitterly deplore the misrepresentation of America by Dr. Wilson.

OPENING SPEECH OF HARDING'S CAMPAIGN

MARION, Ohio, July 31.—In the

opening speech of his front porch campaign, Senator Harding told a delegation from Richland county, Ohio, today, that the greatest usefulness of the nation demands a leveling of class and sectional barriers and a realization of the "interdependence and mutual interest of all our people."

The great war, he said, had helped toward such a realization, though there were many ways by which, in peace time, the rule of "commingling friendship" and equal opportunity could be encouraged. Close co-operation in industry and complete assimilation of the foreign-born he suggested as pointing the way to a fuller national accord.

Would Repeal Taxes Urging also a readjustment of taxation, he expressed doubt whether the war-time excess profits levy was in harmony with peace requirements, but added that he had not yet worked out the details of a revised tax system.

"We ought to make wealth bear its full share of taxation," he said, "and we ever will. Having this thought in mind and also thinking of the excessive cost of living, I doubt if the excess profits tax for war precisely accomplishes the end we seek in peace. I would gladly recommend a change, but I am not yet prepared to suggest an equitable substitute, though I should have no hesitancy in asking congress to seek the earliest possible solution."

Silent on League of Nations

The League of Nations he did not refer to directly, but he declared that the nation's "highest duty is to cling to the fundamentals on which we bled to world astonishment and hold fast to the nationality which inspired our onward march."

"It is with a keen sense of delight that I welcome your visit today," said Senator Harding. "I am pleased that you come out not only as republicans, but as neighbors and friends. We need to cultivate friendliness and neighborliness. I sometimes think in this busy, work-a-day world, we are neglecting those little acts of neighborliness that make life sweet and worth while. It is well enough for one to strive to get ahead in a material sense, for through that ambition human progress is wrought. To acquire and accumulate honestly is most laudable, but we should not forget that life's greatest joys lie in the social intercourse of friends and neighbors. Out of such relations grow mutual respect, mutual sympathy and mutual interest, without which life holds little of real enjoyment."

A Part of County "I feel myself almost a part of Richland county. Our people, early in the last century, settled in a section that was bounded by Richland and Crawford counties, and my earliest recollections are of grists taken to Lexington for grinding. I recall distinctly the stories of my great-grandmother, who related to me how she had often gone with one bag of wheat on horseback, while the men were busy in the fields, and the cries of the wolves were a frequent accompaniment to the weary home-ward journey. That was in the days when heroes were without fame's acclaim, when a sturdy manhood and womanhood were battling with the wilderness to reveal Ohio to the star of empire, westward marching."

Some times I am accused of living in the past, but, frankly, I find the story of their making of Ohio very fascinating, and drink new aspiration in recalling the paths they trod and the works they wrought. The miracle in developing America has its lessons, and emphasizes our resolution to hold fast to all the advancement they made, and go on securely toward all we hope to be.

Home of Many Notables

"Having prospered materially, your county has been likewise fortunate in the quality of its people, from among whom have come many notable men to write their names upon the imperishable tablets of the nation's history."

"I could multiply examples of your fellow citizens worthy of mention did time permit. But I should fall utterly in my duty to his memory and to his great achievements did I not mention that great statesman, John Sherman, one of the fathers of the republican party. For 43 years he helped to write the glorious record of the republic in statute law and service in the cabinet. No man in our public life has rendered more distinguished or valuable service than Senator Sherman."

"The especial thought in my mind today is the interdependence and the mutuality of interest of all our people. One could underwrite the good fortunes of mankind if he could guarantee in prosperity that fraternity—that common interest—which is born of adversity. The Pilgrim fathers held their eternal foundations of new world liberty in grim necessity, and the same spirit, the same accord, the same mutuality followed every pioneering step in the development of the republic."

Ment to Progress

"The tendency of class consciousness is a product of developing fortunes and is both a reflect of achievement and a menace to maintained progress. We must caution against class distinction and class conflict at every step."

"Here is the 'middle west,' where farming is free from tenantry and holds to the personal way, and manufacturing is mainly confined to the plants of that moderate size which indexes the surpassing fabric of American industry. We have the touch of intimacy and that closer understanding which emphasize the thought I have in mind. We cannot promote agriculture alone, because the factory is necessary to the making of a market. We cannot foster the factory and ignore agriculture, because the farm is our base of food supply."

Discusses 40-Cent Wheat

"I can readily recall 40-cent wheat, flayed from the fields of Richland and Morrow. That was before industry developed the home consumer. That was before railways and improved highways opened the way to markets. That was when farming was a fight for subsistence, instead of the present day pursuit of attainment. That was before luxury became the by-product of farm and factory. That was before the age of agricultural machinery, that was when we cradled the wheat and tolled from sunrise to sunset. That was before wealth had been taken from the earth to alter the way of our civilization."

"I trust no one will misquote me as saying I believe in 40-cent wheat because I have indulged my memory. Sometimes we are very unfair in handling the utterances of public men. I remember, when the senate was discussing the war-time guarantee on wheat, when we felt we ought to give the American farmer that assurance which would encourage seeding to guard against war famine, a western senator was arguing that wheat could not be raised for less than $2.50 per bushel. I interrupted him to say that I well recalled that Ohio farmers, in pre-war days, had rejoiced to get a dollar for their wheat. I was speaking of normal days prior to the war. You will bear me witness that I spoke fairly and correctly. Yet there are those today who seek to convey that I said a dollar a bushel is enough for wheat today. I am not so annoyed at the silly untruth as I am distressed at the affront to ordinary intelligence."

"Pardon the diversion. I am recalling the old-time low level of prices to recall at the same time the people's inability to buy, and to remind you that mounting farm prices, mounting wages, mounting expenditures—all are inseparably linked, and a grim mutuality will ultimately assert itself and no matter what we do. But a mindfulness of this mutuality will spare us the fine qualities and the grievances which come of forced adjustment."

"There is no living today or tomorrow according to the standard of yesterday. Every normal being is looking forward. We collect more federal taxes in one year than the entire wealth of the republic a century ago. Only a little while ago our grievances about taxes were wholly local, because a half-century of republican control of the federal government held us free from direct burdens. But the

held their eternal foundations of new world liberty in grim necessity, and the same spirit, the same accord, the same mutuality followed every pioneering step in the development of the republic."

changed policy, the democratic drift to freedom of trade, which is international rather than national and mounting cost of government and finally war burdens terner federal taxation to a colossal burden.

"Despite all the depreciation, I cannot bring myself to accept the notion that the inter-relation among our men and women has departed. We are a democratic people. Our state was founded by people who brought with them the ancient social customs of neighborhood cohesiveness—the tie that knits communities together, whose widening circle makes of the mass of homogeneous people."

"It is good that our producing interests are diversified. In that lies our great strength as a nation. The manufacturing centers and the food producing areas complement and supplement each other. These two grand divisions are bound together by common ties of nationality of history and of aspiration. There is not and there must not be conflict between them. Our imperial domain provides us with the material means of our greatness. There is a disposition of some to inveigh against one section or another, as selfish interest may suggest, but the broad national welfare contemplates no east and no west, no north and no south. Pride of locality is most commendable, but patriotism is not sectional. Politically we may divide as God gives us to see the right, but materially, socially and economically, we must be an entity—united, harmonious and inter-dependent."

"I rejoice to recall that when the great world war summoned our sons to duty and to death, perhaps, there was no question about geography. The boys of the north 'dressed front' with the sons of the south, and all went triumphantly forward to undying fame, never questioning the origin or the environment, much less the locality of their comrades. Upon the mossy rocks of the plains and of the metropolis, with that of the boys of Great Lakes and sons from the land of the palmetto and the fragrant magnolia."

"By cultivating the spirit of friendliness, by a recognition of interdependence, the problems of life are made much easier for all. There is a growing tendency to look to government for all remedies, forgetting there are natural laws that will operate to correct evils if given a fair chance. Oftentimes well-meaning laws defeat the very object they are designed to accomplish."

"If the great world war held for us nothing else, it did teach us that there is something more than gain to be striven for in this world. We can halt the lofty and blessed rule of commingling friendship. Having given our splendid lesson, let us present to the world another example, that of concord among ourselves, and make America safe for Americans and the loftiest example of representative democracy."

"Our country holds out opportunity to all but upon the supreme conditions that those who would avail themselves of that opportunity shall be entirely worthy and know and accept fully the spirit of American institutions."

After citing examples both in Richland and Marion of the making of Americans who were foreign-born, the senator concluded:

"Between Marion and Mansfield is an interesting illustration of national adjustment to the program of progress. The Erie railroad, once the old Atlantic and Great Western, was originally broad-gauged and single track. One day it was reduced to standard gauge in a few hours. Those of you who have noted it will recall that the original track follows one grade, the new track is built to another."

"Is there not an application in the advancing way of America? We must cling to the sure route of splendid development and meet the new demands by no building as to eliminate the grades by which our activities are impeded."

The General Telephone Situation

The reason orders for new telephone service cannot be completed as promptly as in the past, and that some orders are delayed weeks or even months, is that we are trying to meet an abnormal demand for service with a sub-normal supply of the materials necessary to give service.

It is not unnatural for persons moving into a house which formerly had telephone service to assume that, because of that fact, service to them is readily possible. For this mistaken assumption we ourselves are chiefly responsible, because we used to talk about "renting" a telephone, and even bill subscribers for "monthly rental." Consequently the mind of the average subscriber is still focussed on the telephone instrument as the controlling factor of telephone service.

While the telephone instrument is indispensable, it is only one of more than a hundred essential parts of telephone equipment. Lacking any of these parts, a telephone switchboard would be as ineffective as an automobile without its carburetor.

Some of these parts are made by ourselves; others by dozens of specialty manufacturers in various parts of the country. We could increase production if we could get the raw material and the transportation. But with labor troubles in the wire-drawing mills came a shortage of the copper wire necessary for cable and switchboards. Scarcity of paper caused almost a famine of the special kind of paper necessary for the insulation of these copper wires in the cables. And then came freight embargoes, following railroad labor troubles, so that for three weeks this summer one of the largest cable manufacturing plants in the country had to shut down because it could neither get the necessary raw material into its plant nor the much wanted finished product out of its plant and on its way to us.

The desire of waiting customers for telephone service is not more keen than our desire to serve them at once. We want them to feel that we are earnestly trying to do this as rapidly and as fairly as possible.

COMMUNITY FIELD DAY DEMANDS RATIFICATION AT BILLERICA IN TENNESSEE

Seventeen towns and cities of northern and central Middlesex county will combine in a Community Field day at Billerica, Friday, August 6, under the auspices of the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics. The event will be a combination of educational and recreational features with special emphasis on a play festival during the afternoon.

Plans are being made for an attendance of more than 400 men, women, boys and girls. Billerica common and town hall will be the center of things, the party gathering there at 10 a. m. The men will take autos for a 2-hour excursion to 3 very fine farms. At Fowler Farm, the first stop, the county agricultural agent, C. B. Tillson, will stage a stock judging contest, using dairy cows with known records. One of the best alfalfa plots in the county is located here and will be inspected.

A. R. Jenks, county horticultural agent, will act as guide at the Upland orchard owned by Harry Dunlap. This farm has a variety of apple trees. One 23 year old orchard of 16 trees produced 641 boxes of fruit last year. A 7 year old orchard contains 231 trees which have been sprayed 5 times a year. New trees were set last spring on a 1 1/2 acre plot. Manager P. R. Kinney makes a practice of thinning and will explain his cost records.

The third stop will be at John E. Farmer's market garden where he has 11 acres in vegetable crops, including corn, cucumbers, tomatoes, carrots and celery. Mr. Farmer has 3 acres in cauliflower and received $1,000 per acre for the crop last season. On the return trip to the common, the party will inspect Charles Wright's stand of sweet clover which is higher than a man's head.

In the meantime, the women will be enjoying a clothing efficiency demonstration in the town hall under the direction of Miss Margaret L. Robinson, county home demonstration agent. This will be followed by a judging contest of canned fruits and vegetables. The boys and girls will be taken in charge by the county club agents with a special program of their own.

Promptly at 12:30 the different groups will come together to enjoy basket lunches. At 1:30 there will be an entertainment, including readings by Hoyt L. Conary of Waltham. Every one will have an opportunity to take part in the play festival from 2:30 until 4 o'clock. This will be directed by Manager F. D. Griggs of the county bureau, who has arranged a variety of sports and special events, concluding with several inter-town contests.

The field day has been scheduled for this particular time of year as a day of recreation following the rush of haying season. Billerica is easily reached by trolley, train or auto. The towns for which the day is especially designated are: Dunstable, Tyngsboro, Dracut, Lowell, Tewksbury, Chelmsford, Billerica, Carlisle, Wilmington, North Reading, Reading, Woburn, Burlington, Bedford, Concord, Lincoln and Lexington. People from other sections of the county will be most welcome.

BY CHEVROLET

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—Gaston Chevrolet set a new world's record for 100 miles over a dirt track yesterday when he covered the distance without a stop in 59m. 23s.

Chevrolet drove the same car with which he won the $30,000 Indianapolis Memorial Day race. The old record of 21m. 30s. was set by Tom Alley at Indianapolis in 1911.

Tommy Milton, record holder for the straightaway course, finished second yesterday. He trailed four laps behind Chevrolet, who at no time was in danger of being headed. Ralph Mulford also started, but was forced to the pit in the first lap owing to a broken valve.

WASHINGTON, August 2—Miss Alice Paul and her fighting suffragists yesterday sounded a warning to the leaders of the republican and democratic parties through their organ "The Suffragist," which says:

"If Tennessee fails to ratify, it will not be because Tennessee is not in favor of women voting, but because the national political parties are determined to keep them out of the elections next November."

"The suffrage plans in the platforms of the democratic and republican parties offer a test of the sincerity of the parties and the platforms," Miss Paul said. "This one alone of all the planks can be carried out immediately. Failure to carry it out before the elections would leave little reason to hope for the enactment of the other provisions of the platforms after the elections."

"Tennessee offers the first opportunity to the parties to prove the sincerity of their stand in favor of suffrage."

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Livingstone Residence in Pelham Burned to Ground—Barn Burned

The residence and barn of the Livingstone family in Pelham, were struck by lightning during the storm late Saturday, and burned to the ground. The home was unoccupied at the time of the fire and although neighbors made every effort to combat the flames once the fire was discovered, they succeeded in saving only a small part of the furniture. The buildings were unlined and in addition to their loss, William G. Livingstone, one of the occupants, lost $250 in bills which he had left in the house.

EVERY FLOWER HAS A STORY ALL ITS OWN

Consolation and oblivion is the significance of the poppy in the language of flowers. Even the ancients recognized the narcotic qualities of the plant, for Hypnos, the god of sleep, and Thanatos, the god of death, are always represented in old art as holding a poppy.

The Greeks and Romans used the petals of the poppy to test their love. One petal was placed in the palm of one hand and if upon being struck by the other, it snapped with a sharp sound, the loved one was faithful.

Old Indian Legend

An old Indian legend tells of a dervish living on the banks of the Ganges river who had a pet mouse. He was very fond of it and gave it the gift of speech.

A cat living in the neighborhood, however, molested the mouse, so the dervish changed it into a dog. The animal was still dissatisfied. So it was transformed into an ape, then a bear, an elephant and finally into a beautiful girl whom he called Postomani, meaning poppy-seed.

King Married Her

One day as she was in the garden, the king passed and having fallen in love with her, insisted upon being married at once by the dervish, and they lived happily. One day, however, Postomani was standing by a well and, becoming dizzy, fell in. To console the king, the dervish told him the story of Postomani, and gave directions that the well be filled with earth. He told the king that out of her grave a plant would grow from which would be obtained a drug which would make the person using it be mischievous like a mouse, savage like a dog, filthy as an ape, wild like a bear and slow as an elephant. That is the effect the drug has to the present time.

Continued

Linking out money to some depositors at the expense of others.

"I have twice as much money as will be needed," said Ponzi, "to meet any obligations that may be presented to me," and he added that McMahers never was in a position to learn his employer's financial standing or methods of operation.

Many of those who waited for their money today were reading copies of the paper in which McMahers' articles appeared. The crowd included a sprinkling of women, some of whom said they had left their employment for a few hours for the purpose of procuring the money they had invested. Pink checked youths rubbed elbows with elderly men in the line.

Among them moved a few speculators, endeavoring to buy investors' claims at a discount, but these speculators were fewer than last week apparently.

Anticipating the increased crowds, Ponzi had ordered his office opened earlier than usual, and every effort made to speed up payments. Noteholders apparently experienced no difficulty in obtaining what was due them other than the inconvenience of waiting in line until their turn came. Ponzi himself appeared somewhat before his usual hour, coming from his new home in Lexington in his new familiar automobile. He left the machine in Court street and walked to his school street office, two blocks away.

Miss Lucy Mell, Ponzi's office manager, said that she was ready to meet all demands and that the lengthening of the line of persons seeking return of their investments made no difference. She estimated the number of outstanding accounts of the head office here as not more than half the 35,000 which had been given as the figure in a published article.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Shea who has taken charge of the federal investigation during the absence of U. S. Atty. Gallagher, conferred during the forenoon with Edwin L. Pridie, who is making an audit of Ponzi's books before the federal authorities. An official from the office of the attorney general at Washington participated in the conference.

Mr. Pridie said later that thus far his audit had shown no evidence of criminality. He added that he was nowhere near done. "We are trying to find the source of Ponzi's funds and what he has done with his profits," he said.

Chief Postoffice Inspector Hal B. Mosby and members of his staff also were in conference with federal officials.

Ponzi, nattily dressed and apparently not in the least disturbed by the ever-lengthening line outside his doors, met newspapermen with his usual affable smile when they flocked to his office for a statement on the latest developments.

"The only thing that will keep us from meeting the notes of our investors will be writer's cramp," he exclaimed. "I have only a word or two to say to the public: come and get your money, but come in an orderly way. I may run out of check books, but I shall not run out of money."
